Record Low Aid Bid Is Labeled As 'Too Much'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has submitted a record low foreign aid request. But he has continued to lump military and economic assistance together and asked that the door be left open for more funds for South Viet Nam. So the usual storm signals are flying.

"Too much, too much," said Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., of the $3.38 billion Johnson called for in a special message Thursday to Congress.

"At least $1 billion, possibly $1.5 billion, too high," said Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., a member of the Foreign Relations Committee.

But Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-

La., who has made a specialty of meat-axing White House foreign aid requests, was subdued. And Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee who has said he would not manage the bill unless military and economic assistance requests were separated, adopted a wait-and-see stance.

Getting a foreign aid request through Congress in recognizable form has been a test of every president's mettle since the program was instituted in 1948.

The $3.38 billion Johnson wants is the lowest presidential aid request ever, but it is more than $600 million above the $2.7 billion President Dwight D. Eisenhower was able to cage out of Congress for fiscal 1955-56, and it is $130 million more than Johnson himself got last year.

Hearings are expected to start in the House Foreign Affairs Committee, which does not share Fulbright's views about splitting military and economic assistance and whose chairman, Rep. Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., predicted Thursday that the bill "will have an easier time in the House than it has for years."

But foreign aid will have to run the gauntlet of three other committees and then the full Senate and House. Sparks are certain to fly, particularly over continued assistance to border-line friends, such as Indonesia and the United Arab Republic, and Johnson's request for an open-ended military-economic authorization for Vietnamese aid.

And Fulbright definitely does not stand alone in beating the drums for reform.

If Congress leaves the door open for the President on Viet Nam, he will be able to go to it directly later for appropriations for the anti-communist war without first getting authorization for the money in separate legislation. These appropriations would be in addition to the more than $500 million he wants earmarked for South Viet Nam and Laos.

This struck Morse, a persistent opponent of U.S. policy on Viet Nam, as "the sleeper" in the message.

"Obviously," he said, "this is a proposal for funds to make war in South Viet Nam, a war that has not been declared under our Constitution."

Youthful Kennedy Letter Sold for $2700 at Auction

NEW YORK (AP) — A personal letter written by John F. Kennedy when he was 15 years old sold for $2,700 at an auction Thursday night.

A 1963 letter by former Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev brought $1,675. It was written to the president of Bolivia and stressed the importance of peaceful coexistence.

Sixteen items in the sale bearing the autograph of the late President Kennedy sold for a total of $9,045.

A total of 212 famous signatures were sold at the auction for $55,827.50.

Kennedy's boyhood letter was written to a close friend while he was a student at Choate School in Connecticut. The future president bragged in the letter about the number of girls his school attracted to a dance and complained about a beating a student councilman administered to him.

Briley Named Chairman of Ohio Regents

CINCINNATI (AP) — John Marshall Briley, Toledo industrialist and lawyer, was elected today as chairman of the Ohio College Board of Regents.

Briley, who was the unsuccessful Republican candidate for U. S. Senator in 1962, succeeds Dr. Harold W. Oyster, who resigned to become vice president of the University of Akron.

The board, created 17 months ago to chart the future course of higher education in Ohio, also voted at its monthly meeting here today to seek appropriations totaling $156,527,100 for state-supported colleges and universities for the next biennium.

The request, a $55,475,275 increase over the current appropriations, calls for $74,336,700 for 1965-66 and $82,190,400 for 1966-67.

The regents also were scheduled to consider distribution of state funds to municipal universities, community colleges, and university branches and a proposed standard record-keeping system for colleges and universities under its jurisdiction.

A major item that could be not likely to come up is the board's first master plan for higher education. Dr. John Millett, regents' chancellor, said he has received consultant reports from a group that surveyed Ohio's state universities and made recommendations for the master plan.

The survey resulted in 22 consultant reports "which still had to go to the printers," Millett said. The survey was conducted by the Academy of Educational Development, New York City, which used a team of about 50 specialists in all fields of higher education.

Copter Crash Kills 2 GIs

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two Americans were killed and two injured today when their helicopter hit a power line while escorting a road convoy nine miles north of Saigon.

The pilot, an enlisted gunner and a Vietnamese observer died in the crash. The co-pilot and another gunner were injured, and the co-pilot was reported in serious condition.

The crash apparently was accidental. No hostile ground fire was reported.

The deaths raised the number of American servicemen killed in Viet Nam from causes other than enemy action to 109 since December 1961. Another 249 have been killed in action against the Communist Viet Cong.

Communist terrorists Thursday night attacked downtown Thu Dau Mot, 15 miles north of Saigon, exploding two mines and throwing several grenades. At least five Vietnamese civilians were killed and 20 wounded. One of the blasts decapitated one of the terrorists.

There were indications in Saigon that anti-government demonstrations may soon be halted. Two representatives of a central Vietnamese student group opposing the civilian government called on the chief of state, Phan Khanh Suu.

About 300 leading Buddhist monks have been meeting at their Saigon headquarters the past two days, planning new strategy. The monks apparently were intent on a continued anti-government line, but informants said the monks were trying to halt demonstrations.

During the past week, demonstrations and anti-government strikes have been staged daily in Da Nang, Quang Tri and other coastal towns, calling for the ouster of Premier Tran Van Huong.

Most of Ohio Getting Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was snowing in all but the southeastern corner of Ohio early today and an accumulation of one to three inches of new snow was expected.

The snow, associated with a low pressure area over eastern Kansas, was to diminish to flurries by tonight. More flurry activity was forecast for Saturday.

Temperatures this morning included Toledo 11, Cleveland 10, Columbus 15, Cincinnati 19 and Zanesville 14.

Weather Bureau officials said there appeared little indication of an immediate general break in the severe cold spell. Another mass of arctic air appeared headed into the northern Midwest.

The coldest weather of the season hit many areas in the Northeast, with temperatures dropping far below zero in northern sections of New England and in western and northern New York State.

The mercury dropped to record low and seasonal marks in many parts of the Midwest Thursday, including a bone-chilling 42 below zero at Hibbing and International Falls, in northern Minnesota. It was 34 below today at Hibbing, in the iron-range district, and International Falls, on the Canadian border.

In New York State, an unofficial low reading of 30 below was reported and an official mark of 25 below chilled Franklinville, in the western part of the state. It was —24 in Line Lake and —22 in Massena, the same reading which was reported at Montpelier, Vt.

Halleck Gets First Office In Edifice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles A. Halleck takes the last, long step from the office of House Republican leader today — and accomplishes what no congressman has done before.

The deposed GOP House chief becomes the first to move into the huge, costly and unfinished Rayburn Office Building — thus leaving the place of the mighty for the echoing halls of the mighty few.

Saturday morning, as soon as the Halleck staff has moved out bags and baggage, the new GOP leader, Gerald R. Ford, will move into the Capitol office of the leader with his files, books — and problems.

It'll be lonely in the Rayburn building for a while, before the offices for the 168 other congressmen who'll be quartered there are completed. So far Halleck's only neighbors will be workmen and some subcommittee holding sessions there.

The Capitol architect's office reports that some of the offices still lack furniture and carpeting.

Because of the need for finding a place for Halleck — and quick — furniture for his office was borrowed from others.

Five Local Men Cited for Fraud

Five local men have been arrested on charges of fraudulently obtaining more than $10,000 from an elderly Circleville woman during the past year.

Charged with obtaining money under false pretenses by Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, the five men were bound to the next term of the Grand Jury by Municipal Court Judge Sterling M. Lamb.

The men, all of whom entered plea of innocent, are: Robert Keaton, and Leslie Keaton, 20, both of 738 Maplewood Ave.; Jack Keaton 21, of 133 York St.; John Blevins, 29, Neuding Trailer Court; and Tom Francis, 24, of 155 Hayward Ave.

Judge Lamb set bond at $5,000 for each man.

According to Sheriff Radcliff, the five men, along with at least two others who have not been identified, have bilked Mrs. Grace Wentworth, 132 W. Union St., out of more than $10,000 during the past year for work allegedly performed at her home.

NEARLY two inches of snow had fallen here by noon today and the weatherman has predicted three to four inches of new accumulation by morning. Snow flurries are to continue throughout tomorrow.

This is the first measurable snowfall of the 1964-65 winter season, but according to predictions it won't be the last. The Farmer's Almanac has listed the possibility of 19 inches for next week alone.

A REPORT today disclosed that efforts to send a local mother on a visit to her native Newfoundland have produced $534 to date.

A project to raise the necessary funds is being made for Mrs. Kay Boltenhouse of 355 Barnes Ave. who has high hopes of visiting her homeland for the first time in 13 years. A roundtrip to Newfoundland for her and her four children will cost about $800.

Judge Admits Thief Is Honest

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police Court Judge John W. Keefe had to admit today a man brought before him on a charge of stealing a hat from a department store was honest about his occupation.

When Garnett Smokey, 54, no home, was asked his occupation he replied:

"Thief."

He said he had been in the workhouse "20 or 25 times" so Judge Keefe sent him back there for a 90-day term.

Churchill, 90, Seriously Ill

Concern Grows For Recovery

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill today suffered a cerebral thrombosis—a blood clot in the brain—and there was widespread concern that the 90-year-old statesman might be at the end of the road.

A medical bulletin from his doctors said Sir Winston also has developed a circulatory weakness, which would appear to indicate that his heart is flagging or that there was a fairly general blockage of the arteries.

The medical bulletin, issued by his personal physician, Lord Moran, said:

"After a cold, Sir Winston has developed a circulatory weakness and there has been a cerebral thrombosis."

Sir Winston was 90 last Nov. 30.

"He's had a cold for several days," said Sir Winston's son, Randolph Churchill, from his country house at East Bergholt, Suffolk County.

"He has his ups and downs. At his age every illness must be regarded as a serious one," Randolph said.

In the past, he has suffered a number of illnesses and had at least two strokes.

Invariably, he has bounced back, and birthday after birthday for the last five years or more, he has been able to totter to the ground-floor windows of his London home at Hyde Park Gate, smile and give his famous V-for-victory sign to well-wishers congregated outside.

On his last birthday, Lady Churchill, Sir Winston's Darling Clementine, held her husband's arm as he moved slowly to the window. He looked extremely pale.

After he slowly made his V sign with the first two fingers of his right hand, Sir Winston was gently led away by his wife.

Lady Churchill will be 80 in April.

Sir Winston, over the years, has recovered from many illnesses and a fall in which he broke his hip. Londoners have come to know him as Indestructible Churchill.

Since his retirement from the House of Commons last July, Sir Winston has been out of the public eye. His appearance at his window on his birthday is the only time Londoners have seen him for months.

The accident occurred at 10:50 a. m. today. Bergen was reported dead on arrival at Hocking Valley Hospital from massive head injuries.

Injured in the accident were four residents of West Virginia, one of them seriously, according to the Patrol.

Johnson Asks Extension Of Disarmament Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to extend the life of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency for four years to "assure the continuing leadership of the United States in the purposeful pursuit of peace."

Congressional approval of the recommendation, along with the President's request for $55 million for the agency's expenses over the next four years, appeared certain.

Johnson told Congress a determined effort to halt the spread of nuclear weapons over the world is essential to the security of the United States. He made clear that nonproliferation is a foremost objective of his disarmament policy.

Despite the vast defensive power of this country, the President said in letters to the House and Senate, the effort to stop the spreading of nuclear weapons "is essential to our security, for a continued increase and spread of modern weapons can actually decrease our security."

An accompanying letter by agency Director William C. Foster said the legislation will be required to keep the agency operating because the present authorization does not provide adequate funds beyond the end of the present fiscal year, June 30.

"Attempts directed toward arms control and other measures to lessen the threat of war are no longer Utopian dreams," Foster said.

He added: "The work of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency has become an integral (Continued on Page Two)

U.S.-Canada Parley Slated

LBJ To Confer With Pearson

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson, working and relaxing at his Texas ranch, awaited the arrival late today of Canada's Prime Minister Lester Pearson to put finishing touches on a pact to wipe out U.S.-Canadian auto tariffs.

Johnson and his visitor may be able to sign the agreement before Pearson leaves sometime Saturday. However, the U.S. Congress would have to pass special legislation before the agreement could be fully effective.

The pact, subject of months of negotiations, would abolish both countries' tariffs on new autos and new auto parts shipped across their common border.

Johnson, who flew to the ranch with his wife Thursday night for a three-day stay, expected to have relaxed, informal talks with Pearson. Most work on their major item of business — the tariff agreement — was done in advance of the meeting.

The two leaders have met face to face several times in the past 14 months, most recently at Blaine, Wash., on Sept. 16 when they signed a Columbia River treaty. Their meetings have been supplemented by seven or eight telephone talks.

Pearson was bound for the ranch from a Florida vacation.

Signing of the agreement on auto tariffs was postponed several times by last minute haggling over details. But only a few details remained to be worked out in advance of Pearson's visit.

The pact would abolish an American tariff of 6½ per cent on vehicles and 8½ per cent on most parts. The Canadian duties that would be scrapped range from 17½ per cent on finished vehicles to 25 per cent on parts.

The latest figures, for the first nine months of 1964, show $455 million of American vehicle and parts sales to Canada compared with Canadian exports of $46 million.

Skyscraper Dorms Get Nod at OSU

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University's board of trustees has approved plans for five skyscraper dormitories in a move to save campus space for recreation and academic facilities.

The decision announced following a meeting Thursday changes previous plans for 14 dormitories of medium height along the Olentangy River. The skyscraper dorms will have 24 stories each.

In other actions, the board approved plans for a four-story science building at the Miami-Ohio State-Dayton campus at a cost of about $3 million. This will be the second structure at the campus which opened last September.

Diplomats Say U.N. Is Healthy

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — There's a lot of talk about the precarious state of the United Nations' health, but the prevalent prognosis at headquarters is that the patient will live.

Most U.N. diplomats believe that neither a U.S.-Soviet showdown on peacekeeping assessments nor the withdrawal of Indonesia from the world organization will be fatal. But there may be some scars.

The United Nations was given up for dead several times in the past but made surprising recoveries.

This happened in 1950 when the Russians began a general boycott of U.N. meetings in an attempt to force the seating of Red China. It happened again in 1956 at the time of the Hungarian-Suez crises.

Other critical periods for the organization were in 1960 when Nikita Khrushchev launched his so-called "troika" plan to replace the secretary-general with a three-man executive group, and in 1961 when Dag Hammarskjöld was killed in an African plane crash.

Each time gloom settled over U.N. headquarters. Dire predictions were heard, just as now. Some of the more pessimistic are recalling events leading to the collapse of the League of Nations and noting certain similarities.

They could be right. But a majority of U.N. diplomats diagnose the case this way:

If the General Assembly votes to uphold the U.S. position and suspend the voting rights of the Soviet Union, France and 16 other countries, there may be walkouts and other gestures of protest. But there will be no mass withdrawal from the United Nations.

If the Russians win, the United States would be embarrassed and might even cut its financial support of the U.N. to some extent. But it would not go so far as to wreck the organization.

One indication that the Russians do not expect the U.N. to collapse is the fact that they have made two contributions in the past four weeks totaling $5 million. They might have held off if they had been expecting to withdraw.

In some ways, the organization has shown signs of strength in the midst of the current crisis. Many of its specialized agencies continue to expand and have launched ambitious plans for the future. U.N. membership continues to grow. Last month three new countries were admitted.

And the reaction to Indonesia's withdrawal must have been extremely disappointing to President Sukarno. With the exception of Red China, which itself is outside the organization, Indonesia got no support. No country showed any inclination to follow.

FBI Hunts For Slayer In Cincy

CINCINNATI (AP)—The FBI says one of the focal points of its nationwide search for accused murderer Walter Lee Parman is the greater Cincinnati area where he used to live and has relatives.

Ed Mason, special agent in charge of the local FBI office, asked residents of the area Thursday to be on the lookout for the slender 32-year-old with a long record of arrests. Police say Parman reportedly was seen in Cincinnati Thursday morning.

Parman is charged with the first degree murder of Shirley Ann Carey, 32, a State Department secretary whose nude body was found in a Washington, D. C., alley early on Jan. 9. The FBI said she "was the victim of a sadistic, sexual assault."

Parman was described as extremely dangerous and probably armed and Mason asked anyone who saw him to call the FBI office rather than try to stop him.

Parman is believed to be driving a green 1963 Rambler with Minnesota license plate 5-7580, Mason said.

U.S.-Canada Parley Slated

LBJ To Confer With Pearson

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson, working and relaxing at his Texas ranch, awaited the arrival late today of Canada's Prime Minister Lester Pearson to put finishing touches on a pact to wipe out U.S.-Canadian auto tariffs.

Johnson and his visitor may be able to sign the agreement before Pearson leaves sometime Saturday. However, the U.S. Congress would have to pass special legislation before the agreement could be fully effective.

The pact, subject of months of negotiations, would abolish both countries' tariffs on new autos and new auto parts shipped across their common border.

Johnson, who flew to the ranch with his wife Thursday night for a three-day stay, expected to have relaxed, informal talks with Pearson. Most work on their major item of business — the tariff agreement — was done in advance of the meeting.

The two leaders have met face to face several times in the past 14 months, most recently at Blaine, Wash., on Sept. 16 when they signed a Columbia River treaty. Their meetings have been supplemented by seven or eight telephone talks.

Pearson was bound for the ranch from a Florida vacation.

Signing of the agreement on auto tariffs was postponed several times by last minute haggling over details. But only a few details remained to be worked out in advance of Pearson's visit.

The pact would abolish an American tariff of 6 1/2 per cent on vehicles and 8 1/2 per cent on most parts. The Canadian duties that would be scrapped range from 17 1/2 per cent on finished vehicles to 25 per cent on parts.

The latest figures, for the first nine months of 1964, show $455 million of American vehicle and parts sales to Canada compared with Canadian exports of $46 million.

Skyscraper Dorms Get Nod at OSU

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University's board of trustees has approved plans for five skyscraper dormitories in a move to save campus space for recreation and academic facilities.

The decision announced following a meeting Thursday changes previous plans for 14 dormitories of medium height along the Olentangy River. The skyscraper dorms will have 24 stories each.

In other actions, the board approved plans for a four-story science building at the Miami-Ohio State-Dayton campus at a cost of about $3 million. This will be the second structure at the campus which opened last September.

Masonic Group Observing 150th Anniversary Year

Pickaway Lodge No. 23, Free and Accepted Masons, this week is observing the 150th anniversary of its founding in Circleville. The Mason lodge was chartered here Jan. 3, 1815.

The observance opened Wednesday with the serving of a dinner at 6:30 p. m. in the lodge hall to the approximate 130 persons. It was pointed out that this was the first dinner held in the newly renovated Masonic Temple.

J. Jacques Sweeney, master of the Circleville Blue Lodge, presided at opening ceremonies. He extended greetings to the distinguished guests.

A highlight of the festivities was an address by Edgar L. Ott of Columbus, the most worshipful Grand Master of Ohio. Harry Montelius, Route 4, was presented a 50-year pin. He in turn, presented to the lodge an oil painting of the first lodge hall built in Circleville.

THE FIRST member of the Pickaway Lodge, James Bell, was initiated on June 8, 1813. First communications of the newly formed lodge were held in a building owned by Jacob Zieger on the southwest corner of Scioto and High Sts. It was a log house and was also the second Courthouse of Pickaway County.

After the courthouse was moved to the octagonal building in the center of the circle, now Court and Main Sts., the lodge was also moved. Members met on the second floor of that building.

On July 7, 1824, a resolution was adopted to appropriate funds for the building of a lodge room in connection with a school house. A committee, who solicited funds, was authorized to contract for furnishing the upper part of the building which stood on the north side of Watt St. near Pickaway St. This location was used for about 20 years.

On March 4, 1845, Edson B. Olds offered to sell the third floor of the building on W. Main St. where Butch Jewelry Store, Economy Loan and Brunner Jewelry Store are now located. On Aug. 22, 1845, the new lodge rooms were dedicated and were occupied for over 30 years.

The 46-foot by 150-foot lot on which the present temple stands was purchased from John Henry in 1874 for $6,000. The cornerstone of the present building was laid July 25, 1875. The new hall was formally occupied for the first time on July 3, 1877.

In the history of the lodge there have been many illustrious Masons, according to local Masonic officials, the most prominent one was probably William B. Thrall, who served for four successive years as Grand Master of Masons of Ohio. He died at the age of 75 on June 7, 1873.

A special consecration service was also observed during the ceremonies Tuesday evening.

part of our over-all national security policy. Armaments alone can no longer increase security; the unchecked increase of these weapons of mass destruction can only diminish our safety in the hope for peace."

Johnson noted that four years ago the United States became the first nation in the world to establish such an agency.

He said it had a good record of achievement, citing the conclusion in 1963 of the limited nuclear test-ban treaty by the United States, Soviet Union and Britain. The treaty, which bans all but underground tests, now has been signed by a total of 107 nations, France and Red China have not signed. They are the only nations in addition to the United States, Soviet Union and Britain who have nuclear weapons or are building them.

Furthermore, Johnson said, the United States has established a direct communications link between Washington and Moscow — popularly known as the Hot Line — has joined in a U.N. resolution against introducing weapons in outer space, and has "initiated cutbacks in the planned production of fissionable material."

In addition, the President said, the United States has put before the Geneva disarmament conference — now temporarily in recess — "a number of important, concrete proposals for the control and reduction of armaments on which agreement has not yet been achieved."

Foster listed major pending proposals as being designed to freeze production of strategic nuclear delivery vehicles such as rockets, to halt production of fissionable (nuclear) materials for weapons use, to reduce the danger of surprise attack or war by miscalculation by setting up observation posts over the world, and to prevent non-nuclear countries from obtaining nuclear weapons.

Officials said the four-year $55-million authorization which the President asked for the disarmament agency was mainly required to finance research projects. It is expected that the President will ask an appropriation of $10 million to $11 million to finance the disarmament agency for the next fiscal year.

The Circleville Rotary Club's annual Rotary-Anne Party, conducted last night at the St. Philip's Church Parish House, was enjoyed by approximately 120 persons.

A highlight of the evening was the rendition of several selections by a local "German Band." Handling the musical chores were Montford Kirkwood, Dale DeLong, Guy Cline and Ed Ebert.

Additional entertainment was provided by Dr. Robert G. Smith who showed colored slides taken during his two tours of duty with the hospital ship, SS Hope.

The slides showed interesting phases of the work undertaken by the ship and its personnel in South America and Africa. Dr. Smith narrated during the projection.

The Rotary-Anne program is a yearly event for the local organization. Wives of members are special guests for the evening.

TEACHINGS AND DEEDS FROM JESUS'
EARLY MINISTRY

Scripture—Matthew 4:12-34.

By R. H. RAMSEY

CHRIST'S ministry began when that of John the Baptist came to an end. Hearing of John's arrest, Christ left Nazareth for Capernaum, a fairly large town on the Sea of Galilee.

The choice of Capernaum as the center of His apostolic activity was a logical one. It was heavily populated; the commercial center of most of the towns around the Sea of Galilee, and sat astride the crossing of both the north-south and east-west international trade routes. Additionally, it was the most Gentile of all the lands of Israel.

Thus it was that Capernaum first heard of God's spiritual kingdom which none could enter without first sincerely repenting of past sins and experiencing a new birth of the Holy Spirit.

Among Jesus' first acts was the selection of disciples and,
from among the Galilean fishermen, He picked four: Simon and Andrew, whom He had known previously (John 1:35), and James and John, sons of Zebedee, whom He had never met though they were His cousins. As Jesus journeyed about Galilee, He taught, preached the Gospel, and healed the sick, attracting huge throngs of people wherever He went.

Among the unique features of Matthew's gospel is the long word-for-word account he gives us of the Sermon on the Mount,

His teaching regarding the meeting of evil with good set standards infinitely above anything previously demanded by the Law. We are to put up with much, and bear much, rather than give offense. We are not only to love our neighbor, but we are to love our enemies and pray for those who persecute us.

Before Jesus turns to the deeper matter of prayer and our lives as they should be in relation to God, He discusses the matter of giving alms to the poor, recommending that it be done quietly, without fanfare.
Likewise should we pray, alone and quietly, directing our prayers to God alone, without concern about being seen by other men.

In the Lord's Prayer the order of subject is in itself significant: adoration (v. 9), petition (vv. 10, 11), confession (v. 12), and intercession (v. 13). Such a prayer can be uttered only by one who can call God his Father. This Fatherhood of God is one of the greatest, and yet most ignored subjects among conservatives today. Jesus referred to God as Father 163 times, and yet in many of our theologies the Fatherhood of God is never mentioned.

The remaining part of chapter 6 contains a series of exhortations regarding the faithfulness of God to His children which, if embraced, should deliver us from worry, fretfulness

GOLDEN TEXT

"And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people."—Matthew 4:23.

perhaps the greatest single ethical discourse that ever proceeded from the lips of man. It begins with what has come to be called the Beatitudes, which reveal God's will for man to attain a state of complete happiness or blessedness. Happiness is the Divine intention for human life, and the Beatitudes present an informal, non-documentary manifesto of the happiness man is seeking after in a thousand false ways.

From the Beatitudes, Jesus turns to specific laws of conduct. But before He does, He takes from nature two phenomena which always bring blessing—either in a positive way, as light, or in a negative way, as salt, as a preventative of putrefaction. Those who follow Him in a world filled with spiritual darkness are to be shining; and to act as salt in a world filled with corruption.

Jesus speaks with profound solemnity of His purpose in coming to fulfill the Law: starting with the Law as it stands and working out the spirit of it, getting at the vast principles which underlie its narrowness and bringing it to completeness.
The Law is God's will and cannot stop short of complete fulfillment.

Now Jesus turns to the deeper meanings of some laws of life specifically those covered in the 6th and 7th Commandments: life itself, purity in sexual relationships and the subject of oaths.

'Woman of River' Helps Busy Folks Forget It All

NEW YORK (AP) — You sit around a camp fire. Talk about business is taboo. Not far off, you hear the tumbling river.
Night creatures call in the rocks or trees. No one has ever been at the spot before.

"It's something different," said George White, the "woman of the river."

For 20 years, as a hobby, she has been organizing parties of people who want to get away from it all.

Usually, about 10 men and women go along, sharing expenses equally. The expenses of about $300 each for a three-week trip.

"They get better acquainted with each other in a few weeks than ordinarily is possible in a lifetime," said Mrs. White, a trim, 5-foot-6 brunette.

The next trips are planned for

"Most of them are profes-

And that transformation comes, she said, as they ride the river through desolate gorges and thick woods for weeks at a time, settling down each twilight at quiet camps.

"Then you're natural and there's no pretense," Mrs.
White said. "This is real good.
So much of the ordinary life is the Joneses. None of this exists on the river."

For the trips, she ordinarily together, so that if one overturns, the others will be close at

The two outside boats are equipped with oars, and the middle one with an 18-horsepow-

TEACHINGS AND DEEDS FROM JESUS' EARLY MINISTRY

Scripture—Matthew 4:12-34.

By R. H. RAMSEY

CHRIST'S ministry began when that of John the Baptist came to an end. Hearing of John's arrest, Christ left Nazareth for Capernaum, a fairly large town on the Sea of Galilee.

The choice of Capernaum as the center of His apostolic activity was a logical one. It was heavily populated; the commercial center of most of the towns around the Sea of Galilee, and sat astride the crossing of both the north-south and east-west international trade routes. Additionally, it was the most Gentile of all the lands of Israel.

Thus it was that Capernaum first heard of God's spiritual kingdom which none could enter without first sincerely repenting of past sins and experiencing a new birth of the Holy Spirit.

Among Jesus' first acts was the selection of disciples and, from among the Galilean fishermen, He picked four: Simon and Andrew, whom He had known previously (John 1:35), and James and John, sons of Zebedee, whom He had never met though they were His cousins. As Jesus journeyed about Galilee, He taught, preached the Gospel, and healed the sick, attracting huge throngs of people wherever He went.

Among the unique features of Matthew's gospel is the long word-for-word account he gives us of the Sermon on the Mount.

GOLDEN TEXT

"And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people."—Matthew 4:23.

perhaps the greatest single ethical discourse that ever proceeded from the lips of man. It begins with what has come to be called the Beatitudes, which reveal God's will for man to attain a state of complete happiness or blessedness. Happiness is the Divine intention for human life, and the Beatitudes present an informal, non-documentary manifesto of the happiness man is seeking after in a thousand false ways.

From the Beatitudes, Jesus turns to specific laws of conduct. But before He does, He takes from nature two phenomena which always bring blessing—either in a positive way, as light, or in a negative way, as salt as a preventative of putrefaction. Those who follow him in a world filled with spiritual darkness are to be shining; and to act as salt in a world filled with corruption.

Jesus speaks with profound solemnity of His purpose in coming to fulfill the Law: starting with the Law as it stands and working out the spirit of it, getting at the vast principles which underlie its narrowness and bringing it to completeness. The Law is God's will and cannot stop short of complete fulfillment.

Now Jesus turns to the deeper meanings of some laws of life specifically those covered in the 6th and 7th Commandments: life itself, purity in sexual relationships and the subject of oaths.

'Woman of River' Helps Busy Folks Forget It All

NEW YORK (AP) — You sit around a camp fire. Talk about business is taboo. Not far off, you hear the tumbling river. Night creatures call in the rocks or trees. No one has ever been at the spot before.

"It's something different," said Georgie White, the "woman of the river."

For 20 years, as a hobby, she has been organizing parties of people who want to get away from it all.

Usually, about 10 men and women go along, sharing expenses equally. The expenses of about $300 each for a three-week trip.

"They get better acquainted with each other in a few weeks than ordinarily is possible in a lifetime," said Mrs. White, a trim, 5-foot-6 brunette.

The next trips are planned for July along the Nahanni in Alaska, and in August, along the Rio Usumacinta in Guatemala.

A real estate woman at Midway City, Calif., a Los Angeles suburb, she was here to visit friends and attend a boat exhibit.

She started her non-profit avocation because she likes water, unexplored places and adventure. Her companions have kindred motives.

"Most of them are professional people who want to get away from telephones, papers and dressing for the office every day," she said. "They have an unexplainable urge to do something more than the routine."

And that transformation comes, she said, as they ride the river through desolate gorges and thick woods for weeks at a time, settling down each twilight at quiet camps.

"Then you're natural and there's no pretense," Mrs. White said. "This is real good. So much of the ordinary life is prestige and keeping up with the Joneses. None of this exists on the river."

For the trips, she ordinarily has a string of three boats, tied together, so that if one overturns, the others will be close at hand.

The two outside boats are equipped with oars, and the middle one with an 18-horsepower outboard motor.

Russia has given the new name of Tselinograd, or Virgin Land City, to a community of 100,000 in the northeastern Kazakh Soviet Socialist Republic, the National Geographic says. The city's previous name, Akmolinsk, discouraged settlers. It meant White Tomb.

NEW YORK (AP) — More business firms are testing price increases in the market place. More concerns are piling up stocks of materials and at a faster pace.

These two moves, which in the past often have gone together, are making some of the professional economy watchers nervous. They fear that price boosts and inventory building together might be early warning signs of either inflation or boom and bust, or both.

But in each case — price increases and stockpiling — there are particular circumstances to mitigate the danger, or at least to explain their appearance just now.

Inventories are growing at the fastest rate in a year. But sales have been rising swiftly, too. So the total accumulation in the stockrooms may count for less, at the current rate of turnover, than it did in earlier months before the stock building got going strong.

Price rises of late, especially in primary materials and industrial products, often can be charged either to rising costs of production, or even more to tightening of supplies. World production may have slid because of labor strife or other reasons at a time that demand was increasing due to general prosperity among industrial nations. If the rule of supply and demand is to apply, prices tend to rise in such a situation.

But the Federal Reserve Bank of New York expresses concern that both consumer and industrial wholesale prices rose in November, and perhaps again in December. And it sees the increases announced by the steel industry late in December as adding "to the recently emerging climate in which businessmen seem to be less reluctant to probe markets to determine whether price increases can be made to stick."

Some other economists are keeping a close eye on inventory trends. The Commerce Department's latest figures show a sharp gain in November in all sectors factory, wholesale and retail.

Combined the stocks stood at $108 billion, a gain of $680 million in a month. But combined sales also rose 2 per cent in the month to $73.5 billion. This brought the inventories down to 1.47 months' supply, compared with 1.53 month's supply in the like 1963 month. The ratio leaves the picture looking far from dangerous.

Some of the November gain is attributed to stockpiling of steel by users who fear they might be pinched this spring if current labor negotiations hit a snag and lead either to a strike or to much higher prices.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE BARTENDER at P. J. Clarke's watched patiently while an inebriated lugged viciously but vainly with a toothpick at the martini in front of him, trying to spear the olive in the glass. Finally the bartender grabbed the toothpick and harpooned the olive at his first stab. "Great work, Boy," applauded the inebriate, "but you gotta admit I had him so exhausted he couldn't get away."

Doctor Seligman told a cranky old patient, "I think an operation is indicated—and this very week, if we can get a private room at the hospital." "But, Doctor," quavered the patient, "how will that affect my hobby?" "Your hobby?" echoed the doctor. "What is your hobby?" "Saving money," said the patient.

Bill Dana tells of a quack who peddled "old Indian remedies" at state fairs. "It's infallible," claimed the quack to investigating officers — "that is, for anybody who's troubled by old Indians."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Q: Are all people sensitive to some kind of drug?

A: Most people are not sensitive or allergic to drugs. Yet even without any previous, known allergy, it is possible to have a sudden, unexpected or unusual reaction to a particular drug.

Some people have a lower drug tolerance than others. Highly allergic patients often end to be sensitive to drugs that would normally not be disturbing.

Q: Does a sensitivity reaction ever depend on the quantity of a drug?

A: Some drugs tend to accumulate in the body. When they are taken at too frequent intervals and the body receives more than it needs or can absorb, this can cause a sensitivity reaction which might not occur with smaller or less frequent doses.

The dosage prescribed by a doctor is usually based on the age, the weight and the particular condition of the patient. This dosage should never be exceeded.

Q: Is there any way of predicting whether a person will be sensitive to a drug?

A: If a patient has had reactions to other drugs before, a new drug is usually tried first in small amounts. If there is no reaction, the dosage may then be slowly increased.

For some drugs, like penicillin, there are skin tests to check for sensitivity before the drug is actually given. If the skin test indicates an allergic reaction, the drug can then be avoided and a substitute drug may be used instead.

Q: Can a person suddenly become sensitive to a drug that has been taken before without noticeable reaction?

A: This can, and often does occur. The intricate body mechanisms which produce sensitivity or allergy are extremely complex, and still a scientific puzzle not completely solved.

Whenever there are any signs of unusual reaction to a drug, even if it has been taken safely before, discontinue its use, and consult your physician.

Q: What are the symptoms of a drug reaction?

A: There are many different types of reactions.

Welts or hives on the skin, skin rashes, itching of the skin, sudden running of the nose, or itching and swelling of the eyes are only a few of the reactions which may be indications of sensitivity to a drug.

It must be remembered, however that many forms of illness may produce these same symptoms. It is therefore unwise to make a self-diagnosis of drug reaction.

Q: Can drugs cause severe and dangerous reactions?

A: Reactions to drugs can vary from minor annoyance to prolonged discomfort.

Immediate discontinuance of the drug, followed by intensive medical treatment with antihistamines, cortisone and ACTH will usually prevent any serious complications.

Q: Once a person has had a reaction to a certain drug will he always be sensitive to it?

A: This is usually the case.

Once a person is known to be sensitive to a particular drug it is wise to avoid its use, unless there is no available substitute.

Q: Can a person suddenly become sensitive to a drug that has been taken before without noticeable reaction?

Cuba's Che Guevara is still calling for subversion in Chile, but it begins to look as if that country were going to solve its problems without making any desperate turn to Castroism.

The biggest obstacle that the new Chilean Christian Democratic government of President Eduardo Frei has had to surmount can be summed up in one word: copper. The local mines that produce this metal, which accounts for at least two-thirds of Chile's foreign exchange, have been nominally owned by great foreign companies such as Anaconda and Kennecott.

Paralyzed for years by the threats of expropriation and nationalization of their properties, the Anaconda and Kennecott companies had done practically nothing to expand their Chilean production. The Braden property belonging to Kennecott in Chile is one of the richest sources of copper in the world, but with a local tax rate running to some eighty-five per cent of profits Kennecott had actually diverted investment funds that might have gone to Chile into a renovation of western U.S. mines that are much poorer in the quality of their ore.

Now, suddenly, the logjam is broken: Anaconda, Cerro, and Kennecott have all worked out patterns that give Chile equal—and even better — partnership in the mines, yet which avoid the shattering impact on productivity which would have followed expropriation and nationalization. The Chilean parliament has still to ratify the deals, and the local Communists are yelling bloody murder to stop them. But it looks as though everything will be set before summer. Chile will be getting considerably more out of its mines than the cheap copper ashtrays that have always been as plentiful as paper cups in its hotel rooms.

Each side, in the negotiations leading up to the new agreements has given up a big token of false pride to get the realities of more profit for everybody concerned. Kennecott, for instance, has agreed to transfer the business of its Braden subsidiary to a new Chilean corporation, the Sociedad Minera El Teniente, S. A. The Chilean government gets a 51 per cent interest in this new corporation, with Kennecott retaining 40 per cent. But Kennecott is not making a free gift of its stockholders' property to Chile. The company is to get 80 million dollars for the surrendered 51 per cent. But the Chileans will be able to fund the payment out of their share of the copper profits quite easily, for Kennecott has agreed to expand Braden production from 180,000 tons a year to 280,000 tons.

It will take five years to complete the expansion. Meanwhile the total tax rate on Kennecott's Chilean earnings will be forty-four per cent — or about half of what it is at present.

This is far more than a mere "business" story, for it points up the calming influence that President Johnson's Latin American policy coordinator, Thomas Mann has had on the course of recent U. S.-Latin relations. Thomas Mann works behind the scenes, with no desire to massage his own ego. He has gotten tremendous results everywhere he has had the opportunity to work.

He was an adviser to the Eisenhower government at the time of the Guatemalan takeover by the Communists—and it wasn't very long before the Communists were ousted from the government. He was ambassador to Mexico — and Mexico is today the only Latin American country that can sell its bonds abroad. He let it be known that the U. S. would look with complacency on the overthrow of the Leftist Goulart regime in Brazil — and the ouster of Goulart came off on the Brazilians' own schedule. He worked out the "new canal" approach that did so much to defuse the Panama crisis. Thomas Mann did not do any of the negotiating that led to the ending of the copper impasse in Chile, but Frank Millikan, the president of Kennecott, kept him informed of the progress of the deal at all stages. The tacit assurance of Mann's good will certainly had much to do with the decision of the new Eduardo Frei government to give up the fetish of total expropriation of the mines.

Thomas Mann hasn't been able to solve the problem of Cuba, but as thousands of U. S. citizens continue to by-pass Havana to spend winter vacation money in Jamaica, the Virgin Islands, Barbados, and the Bahamas, more and more Cubans must be thinking that Castro is tops as an economic idiot. If Cuba had only chosen the route of Mexico, Brazil, and Chile, it might have been rolling in prosperity today without giving a single hostage to "colonialism." Given a little support from the State Department, Thomas Mann would surely be able to bring this home to the Cubans.

If Dean Rusk has any retirement plans, Thomas Mann is one of two obvious choices to succeed him as Secretary of State. The other choice is Dean Acheson, who has learned much since Korea.

SECOND MURDER TRIAL ON—Mrs. Lucille Miller, accused in the torch killing of her dentist husband in the family car, sits in the judge's ante-chamber in San Bernardino, Calif., in a conference with her attorney, Edward P. Foley. This is her second trial, the first having been declared a mistrial when court decided newspaper publicity damaged defense.

THE CHURCHES OF CHRIST SALUTE YOU, Rom. 16:16. We invite you to worship with us at 225 Moats Drive in Circleville. The thought for today, "How Do We Profit By Faith." It is doubtful that anyone except an atheist, an infidel or a heathen would deny that people who are saved are saved by faith. That however is a different thing to being saved by faith only. James 2:24. Study Hebrews 11 and see if you can determine how the ancient worthies profited by faith. They did so by exercising their faith by obedience, "Abraham obeyed," "Abel, offered," "Noah, prepared." This proves that faith that saves is faith that obeys. We do not have the same commands in this christian age, but the principle of faith and obedience are the same. One who stops short of baptism now does not have the faith that saves from past sins and one who refuses to obey commands of God addressed to christians doesn't have the faith that saves eternally. NEW YORK (AP) — More business firms are testing price increases in the market place. More concerns are piling up stocks of materials and at a faster pace.

These two moves, which in the past often have gone together, are making some of the professional economy watchers nervous. They fear that price boosts and inventory building together might be early warning signs of either inflation or boom and bust, or both.

But in each case — price increases and stockpiling — there are particular circumstances to mitigate the danger, or at least to explain their appearance just now.

Inventories are growing at the fastest rate in a year. But sales have been rising swiftly, too. So the total accumulation in the stockrooms may count for less, at the current rate of turnover, than it did in earlier months before the stock building got going strong.

Price rises of late, especially in primary materials and industrial products, often can be charged either to rising costs of production, or even more to tightening of supplies. World production may have slid because of labor strife or other reasons at a time that demand was increasing due to general prosperity among industrial nations. If the rule of supply and demand is to apply, prices tend to rise in such a situation.

But the Federal Reserve Bank of New York expresses concern that both consumer and industrial wholesale prices rose in November, and perhaps again in December. And it sees the increases announced by the steel industry late in December as adding "to the recently emerging climate in which businessmen seem to be less reluctant

Some other economists are keeping a close eye on inventory trends. The Commerce Department's latest figures show a sharp gain in November in all sectors factory, wholesale and retail.

Combined the stocks stood at $108 billion, a gain of $680 million in a month. But combined sales also rose 2 per cent in the month to $73.5 billion. This brought the inventories down to 1.47 months' supply, compared with 1.53 months' supply in the like 1963 month. The ratio leaves the picture looking far from dangerous.

Some of the November gain is attributed to stockpiling of steel by users who fear they might be pinched this spring if current labor negotiations hit a snag and lead either to a strike or to much higher prices.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE BARTENDER at P. J. Clarke's watched patiently while an inebriate lunged viciously but vainly with a toothpick at the martini in front of him, trying to spear the olive in the glass. Finally the bartender grabbed the toothpick and harpooned the olive at his first stab. "Great work, Boy," applauded the inebriate, "but you gotta admit I had him so exhausted he couldn't get away."

Doctor Seligman told a cranky old patient, "I think an operation is indicated, and this very week, if we can get a private room at the hospital." "But, Doctor," quavered the patient, "how will that affect my hobby?" "Your hobby?" echoed the doctor. "What is your hobby?" "Sawing money," said the patient.

Bill Dana tells of a quack who peddled "old Indian remedies" at state fairs. "It's infallible," claimed the quack to investigating officers — "that is, for anybody who's troubled by old Indians."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Q: Are all people sensitive to some kind of drug?

A: Most people are not sensitive or allergic to drugs. Yet even without any previous, known allergy, it is possible to have a sudden, unexpected or unusual reaction to a particular drug.

Some people have a lower drug tolerance than others. Highly allergic patients often end to be sensitive to drugs that would normally not be disturbing.

Q: Does a sensitivity reaction ever depend on the quantity of a drug?

A: Some drugs tend to accumulate in the body. When they are taken at too frequent intervals and the body receives more than it needs or can absorb, this can cause a sensitivity reaction which might not occur with smaller or less frequent doses.

The dosage prescribed by a doctor is usually based on the age, the weight and the particular condition of the patient. This dosage should never be exceeded.

Q: Is there any way of predicting whether a person will be sensitive to a drug?

A: If a patient has had reactions to other drugs before, a new drug is usually tried first in small amounts. If there is no reaction, the dosage may then be slowly increased.

For some drugs, like penicillin, there are skin tests to check for sensitivity before the drug is actually given. If the skin test indicates an allergic reaction, the drug can then be avoided and a substitute drug may be used instead.

Q: Can a person suddenly become sensitive to a drug that has been taken before without noticeable reaction?

A: This can, and often does occur. The intricate body mechanisms which produce sensitivity or allergy are extremely complex, and still a scientific puzzle not completely solved.

Whenever there are any signs of unusual reaction to a drug, even if it has been taken safely before, discontinue its use, and consult your physician.

Q: What are the symptoms of a drug reaction?

A: There are many different types of reactions.

Welts or hives on the skin, skin rashes, itching of the skin, sudden running of the nose, or itching and swelling of the eyes are only a few of the reactions which may be indications of sensitivity to a drug.

It must be remembered, however that many forms of illness may produce these same symptoms. It is therefore unwise to make a self-diagnosis of drug reaction.

Q: Can drugs cause severe and dangerous reactions?

A: Reactions to drugs can vary from minor annoyance to prolonged discomfort.

Immediate discontinuance of the drug, followed by intensive medical treatment with antihistamines, cortisone and ACTH will usually prevent any serious complications.

Q: Once a person has had a reaction to a certain drug will he always be sensitive to it?

A: This is usually the case. Once a person is known to be sensitive to a particular drug it is wise to avoid its use, unless there is no available substitute.

Q: Can a person suddenly become sensitive to a drug that has been taken before without noticeable reaction?

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Pupils at Circleville High School were scheduled to have semester examinations next week.

Carl Riffle, 717 Maplewood Ave., informed city police that five tires were taken from a shed in the rear of his home.

For the first time in eight years members of the Carter family assembled in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Carter, Route 2, for a family gathering.

TEN YEARS AGO

Sheriff's deputies reported at least five accidents occurred on roads in Pickaway County due to icy conditions.

Mrs. Alvin Perdion, 320 Elm Ave., was hostess to a party honoring her daughter, Ann, on her seventh birthday.

Mrs. W. W. Robinson, and Mrs. J. O. Eagleson were planning to attend a meeting observing World Religion Day in Columbus.

THE REV. L. C. SHERBURN, pastor of the Episcopal Church, was appointed by Mayor William Cady to fill the vacancy on the board of trustees of the Public Library.

The County Engineer's office and the county relief director, put 49 men to work cleaning snow from the Court House steps and walks.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harden, Stoutsville, were on a two weeks vacation in Florida.

The Navy is experimenting with a tandem propeller submarine that can hover, turn around on a dime and even stand on its tail. A Navy commander designed and built a prototype of the ship in his cellar. The sub has twin propellers that spin entirely around the ship's hull; blades on the propellers are regulated by computers.

Ohio River Nearly 'Clean'

CINCINNATI (AP)—The billion-dollar job of cleaning up the mighty Ohio River and its tributaries is nearing completion.

The job began in 1948 when eight states in the 1,000-mile course of the stream formed the Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission (ORSANCO) and the group's chairman said Thursday the primary goals are almost reached.

In ORSANCO's 16th annual report, chairman Barton A. Holl of Logan, Ohio, noted that 99 per cent of the sewage from communities along the Ohio and its tributaries now is treated before being dumped into the streams. Back in 1948, less than one per cent of the sewage went through this process.

The report put the cost of the clean-up at $1 billion.

It also said that "92 per cent of the 1,700 industrial establishments whose effluents are discharged into streams are complying at least with minimum interstate control requirements. Many are rated as doing even better."

With the task of getting towns and factories to comply with anti-pollution measures nearing completion, ORSANCO plans to give more attention to boats that throw refuse in the river, Holl said.

Among the matters discussed by delegates from the eight member states was a conference on pollution in the Mahoning River. The delegates decided to seek a pre-conference meeting for drawing up an agenda for the main conference Feb. 16 at Youngstown.

The conference was called by Anthony J. Celobrezze, secretary of health, education and welfare, and Dr. E. W. Arnold, the Ohio commissioners of health, Thursday denounced this as a federal power grab.

Ice-Fishing Prospects Look Good

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP)—There's a good chance for ice fishing in Lake Erie this week end if conditions continue to improve, the Coast Guard said today.

"If it stays real cold, the ice now forming will keep building up and the thickness could reach six inches," said CPO Donald Alberts, in charge of the Coast Guard station at Marblehead.

Alberts warned that the lake ice should be at least a half-foot thick before fishermen go out on it.

The cold spell has resulted in new ice forming along the shore in the Sandusky-Port Clinton area and around Bass and Kelleys Islands, Alberts said. About 40 per cent of Sandusky Bay was covered, he added.

Ice fishing in the area has not been good since early last month because of an 18-day period of unseasonable weather.

The U. S. Weather Bureau in Cleveland predicted a mean temperature of 20 degrees over the next five days. This could help bring out the ice fishermen.

Governor Starts Big Niles Firm Press

NILES, Ohio (AP)—With the press of a button, Gov. James A. Rhodes started the 275,000-pound press at the Niles Expanded Metals Co., the largest press of its kind in the country, at special ceremonies Thursday. The ceremonies marked the company's $800,000 expansion, completed last year, and $400,000 in improvements scheduled for 1965. The press is for production of heavy grating for catwalks and skywalks and stair treads.

The Circleville Herald, Fri. Jan. 15, 1965

Robots Join Pollution War

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Robots have joined Ohio's war on water pollution.

Seven $10,000 mechanical monitors measure the amount of sewage and industrial waste in major streams every few minutes around the clock.

The state contemplates installing 20 more robots to augment hand sampling and testing conducted weekly at strategic spots.

Power-driven robots along stream banks pump water samples to record temperature, acid content, matter in solution and the amount of dissolved oxygen present. These figures show when pollution nears a level which might kill fish or present other hazards.

Fish can't live in streams with less than four parts per million of dissolved oxygen, explains C. V. Youngquist, chief of the water division in the Department of Natural Resources.

That makes the oxygen content of streams important to $10,000 people who buy Ohio's $2 fishing licenses annually.

Most of Ohio's inland lakes are artificial and pollution in them is well controlled but streams present a major problem.

About four-fifths of Ohio's 10 million residents live in areas affected by water pollution, Youngquist estimates.

Ohio industry, he says, "is doing a fairly good job of pollution control" on 44,000 miles of streams. But "constant vigil" is required to keep from falling behind.

Youngquist commends his department, the State Health Department and the U. S. Geological Survey for their efforts. But he wants greater use of improved methods devised by universities, the U. S. Public Health Service and the Taft Research Center in Cincinnati.

Ohio is a member of the eight-state Ohio River Valley Sanitation Commission which has three robot monitors on the Ohio River bordering the state.

Ohio's water pollution control laws date from 1951. A five-member water pollution control board headed by the state health director licenses sewage treatment plants and industrial waste disposal. The board can require locally-financed construction and levy a fine of $500 a day for violation although none has been imposed to date.

Only six cities lack sewage treatment plants and four of them started construction last year, records show. Of 57 villages under 5,000 population needing treatment plants, 11 had construction under way last year and 38 were drafting plans.

But 103 of 128 county sewage plants were listed as inadequate. Seven other county sewer districts had plants in the works.

Federal grants to help finance municipal treatment facilities in Ohio ran to $3.4 million last year. Since the grants became available in 1956, more than 140 municipal and county entities have received $17.7 million in such aid.

Two years of unseasonably dry weather has left Ohio streams "in pretty bad shape," observes a spokesman in the health department's division of engineering.

He blames sluggish stream flow for the murky condition of the Scioto river between Columbus and Portsmouth, more than half the stream's 175-mile length. The Miami River south of Dayton is similarly afflicted, he adds.

Other pollution-plagued rivers include the Maumee between Lima and Toledo, Cuyahoga in the Cleveland area, and Mahoning in the Warren-Niles-Youngs town area.

Artist's Brush Aids Criminals

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—Will learning to wield an artist's brush help criminals from using more deadly implements when they get out of prison?

A rehabilitation expert at Southern Michigan Prison here thinks so. He's conducting art classes to prove his point.

The idea, says a psychologist, is that a prisoner tortured by pangs of hostility "works off these feelings on canvas before they develop into an explosive nature."

The program has been so successful that Dr. E. L. V. Shelley, supervisor of treatment for the State Corrections Department, hopes to expand it to other institutions.

Not only does painting help prisoners reduce hostility, Shelley says, but it also "helps them develop a sense of worthiness."

"They create something that other people recognize and appreciate," he explains. "Many convicts have feelings they don't know how to express or are afraid to express."

"In their group, expressing feelings is a sign of softness," Shelley says. "But in art, they can let themselves go."

The class takes up to 25 students at a time. The best paintings are sent on exhibition tours. When some went to college campuses last year sales brought in about $1,000.

Another set of paintings is being sent on a tour of penal institutions in Wisconsin, Indiana, Illinois and Minnesota.

A foundation grant of $5,000 is being sought to buy art materials and establish a gallery at the Jackson institution.

Federal Examiner Set To Probe Train Wreck

WASHINGTON (AP)—Examiner Henry J. Viskey of the Interstate Commerce Commission will open a hearing in Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 25 on this week's train collision at Sterling, Ohio, which killed five crewmen. The investigation concerns the crash of Baltimore & Ohio and an Erie-Lackawanna freights at a point where their lines cross.

Edwards, Linkletter Stage Surprise Summit Meeting

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—They said it could never happen but this week it did. Ralph Edwards came on Art Linkletter's show and announced, "This is Your Life."

The one-time rivals in audience-participation shows finally made their appearance together, much to Linkletter's consternation. It was all part of the 20th birthday celebration for his "House Party" show. The Edwards-Linkletter summit meeting will appear on the daytime CBS series Jan. 22.

It was just 20 years ago today that Art and his partner, John Guedel, staged the first edition of the longest party in history. They already had a nighttime radio show, "People are Funny," and Art commuted weekly to San Francisco, where he emceed the daytime "What's Doing, Ladies?"

The two had an idea for another program about the younger generation, called "Under 21." They went to New York to sell it to Young and Rubicam advertising agency. No sale. was the reply, but General Electric was looking for a five-a-week show. Art and John quickly concocted "House Party." It has been on radio ever since and on television for 13 years. It's the only program broadcast in both mediums.

"The only feature we saved from 'Under 21' was interviewing young kids," said Art. "And we're still doing it."

Over the years Linkletter has changed — from friendly, optimistic emcee to friendly, optimistic millionaire. The show has changed, too.

"We have less of the frantic party atmosphere that we used to have," said Art. "The biggest change is interviews in depth which I do with noted figures. "This reflects the changing audience. There is more interest in self-improvement than ever before. The show has tried to meet that interest."

The world's largest pure nickel coins, each weighing nearly one ounce, are the Belgian 20-franc pieces minted in 1931. The smallest are the current 10-cent pieces of the Netherlands, each weighing one twentieth of an ounce.

Ohio River Nearly 'Clean'

CINCINNATI (AP)—The billion-dollar job of cleaning up the mighty Ohio River and its tributaries is nearing completion.

The job began in 1948 when eight states in the 1,000-mile course of the stream formed the Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission (ORSANCO) and the group's chairman said Thursday the primary goals are almost reached.

In ORSANCO's 16th annual report, chairman Barton A. Holl of Logan, Ohio, noted that 99 per cent of the sewage from communities along the Ohio and its tributaries now is treated before being dumped into the streams. Back in 1948, less than one per cent of the sewage went through this process.

The report put the cost of the clean-up at $1 billion.

It also said that "92 per cent of the 1,700 industrial establishments whose effluents are discharged into streams are complying at least with minimum interstate control requirements. Many are rated as doing even better."

With the task of getting towns and factories to comply with anti-pollution measures nearing completion, ORSANCO plans to give more attention to boats that throw refuse in the river, Holl said.

Among the matters discussed by delegates from the eight member states was a conference on pollution in the Mahoning River. The delegates decided to seek a pre-conference meeting for drawing up an agenda for the main conference Feb. 16 at Youngstown.

The conference was called by Anthony J. Celebrezze, secretary of health, education and welfare, and Dr. E. W. Arnold, the Ohio commissioner of health, Thursday denounced this as a federal power grab.

Ice-Fishing Prospects Look Good

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP)—There's a good chance for ice fishing in Lake Erie this week end if conditions continue to improve, the Coast Guard said today.

"If it stays real cold, the ice now forming will keep building up and the thickness could reach six inches," said CPO Donald Alberts, in charge of the Coast Guard station at Marblehead.

Alberts warned that the lake ice should be at least a half-foot thick before fishermen go out on it.

The cold spell has resulted in new ice forming along the shore in the Sandusky-Port Clinton area and around Bass and Kelleys Islands, Alberts said. About 40 per cent of Sandusky Bay was covered, he added.

Ice fishing in the area has not been good since early last month because of an 18-day period of unseasonable weather.

The U. S. Weather Bureau in Cleveland predicted a mean temperature of 20 degrees over the next five days. This could help bring out the ice fishermen.

Governor Starts Big Niles Firm Press

NILES, Ohio (AP)—With the press of a button, Gov. James A. Rhodes started the 275,000-pound press at the Niles Expanded Metals Co., the largest press of its kind in the country, at special ceremonies Thursday. The ceremonies marked the company's $800,000 expansion, completed last year, and $400,000 in improvements scheduled for 1965. The press is for production of heavy grating for catwalks and skywalks and stair treads.

Robots Join Pollution War

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Robots have joined Ohio's war on water pollution.

Seven $10,000 mechanical monitors measure the amount of sewage and industrial waste in major streams every few minutes around the clock.

The state contemplates installing 20 more robots to augment hand sampling and testing conducted weekly at strategic spots.

Power-driven robots along stream banks pump water samples to record temperature, acid content, matter in solution and the amount of dissolved oxygen present. These figures show when pollution nears a level which might kill fish or present other hazards.

School Officials Discuss Student Dropout Problem

Richard Snouffer principal of Circleville High School and Richard Fisher, head of the guidance department, were guest speakers at the Child Conservation League meeting, Tuesday in the home of Mrs.

C. K. Vaughan, 335 Woodlane. "Children in Chaos" was the topic of their program which dealt in the problem of school dropouts. They stated that the dropout is defined as one who leaves school before completing grade 12 for reasons other than death or illness. The age of a dropout ranges from 14 to 19 or 20 years with the average age being 17½ years.

The four main reasons for leaving school discussed by Mr. Fisher were student ability; home centered reasons, such as parental pressures on the child to help out financially or a conflict in the family; adjustment to school or the inability to adjust or just no desire for school at all and student initiated and controlled reasons, such as marriage, armed forces and pregnancy.

He said many dropouts are from families whose parents never completed high school, which amounts to 58 per cent of the Ohio adult population. The family economic status is another factor for one leaving school.

According to the speaker employment for the dropout undoubtedly proves to be a problem since he is not prepared for a job. If he is lucky enough to find employment he will notice a great difference in earning power.

In an effort to solve this problem Mr. Snouffer stated that Circleville High School has improved their curriculum with special courses such as Remedial English and Math for students who would otherwise have a great difficulty, also specific diploma areas, more emphasis on progress and guidance counseling. The teachers also have a self-improvement or evaluation program for themselves.

Mr. Snouffer stressed a happy home life for the student with discipline, respect and positive values emphasized. He said the community can help verbally and financially and added that the school works closely with the juvenile court, churches and police.

Members asked for suggestions which could possibly encourage children to stay in school. Especially noted were a reading program for the elementary, mandatory summer school, an emphasis on elementary and junior high guidance and an address to classes by a former dropout.

Mrs. Glenn McCoy, president, reported that Mrs. Robert Cole and Mrs. Vaughn will be co-chairmen of the program committee for the year.

Mrs. Ed Grigg reported on the Blood Bank and made a request for donors. The club will again help Robert Wellington with hearing tests next month.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. William Eddy.

Dear Abby: Take a Seat, Honey!

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Where is a girl supposed to sit when she is on a date with a boy who drives a car with bucket seats? Would it be proper for her to sit in the middle, between the two bucket seats so she won't be so far away from her date? Supposing the gear shift is between the two seats? Please answer in the paper because I know other girls who have the same problem.

NOT CLOSE ENOUGH

DEAR NOT: The girls sits in her own bucket seat. The problem of distance between the girl and her date is a mere drop in the bucket compared to those she'll run into if she tries to occupy the "no girl's land" between the seats. Sit where you belong. He can't drive forever.

DEAR ABBY: I am 26 and the mother of four children. When I married (six years ago) I weighed 118 pounds, and wore a size 12 dress. I am five feet six and everyone used to compliment me on my figure. Today I wear a size 18½ dress, and the last time I had the courage to get on a scale I weighed 188 pounds. I don't have to tell you how ashamed of myself I am. I have gone on every diet I've heard of and I've even tried to smoke, but it makes me sick. I just don't have the will power to stick with a diet. I've heard there is a club people join to help them lose weight. It's supposed to be something like Alcoholics Anonymous. People help each other. I need inspiration and encouragement from others who have the same problem. Or doesn't that work, either?

FAT AND DISGUSTED
DEAR FAT: Nothing "works" unless you are willing to work at making it work. "TOPS" (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) is one of the most prominent clubs. Write to their headquarters at 2306 S. Howell Ave. Milwaukee 7, Wisconsin, for information about their chapters in other cities. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter was raised in a good Christian home but you would never know it from the way she has acted since she was 14. She is 22 now and is going through her third divorce. She could never keep a husband because she was so crazy about men. And the lower they were, the better she liked them.

She is under a doctor's care now and the doctor told me my daughter runs with bums because of a "VITAMIN DEFICIENCY." Is this possible?

CAN'T BELIEVE IT
DEAR CAN'T: Your daughter's deficiency strikes me as more moral than physical, but maybe the doctor is right. After he fills her full of vitamins, you will find out.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WAITING FOR TOMMY": He seems more interested in having a ball than in having a ball and chain. Give up.

Miss Dean, Mr. Roark Are Engaged

MISS ELIZABETH M. DEAN

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Dean Sr., Route 2, Ashville, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth Marie, to Mr. Van Roark Jr. son of Mr. and Mrs. Van Roark, Route 2, Ashville.

The bride-elect is attending Teays Valley High School.

Mr. Roark is serving aboard the USS Essex.

No definite date has been set for the wedding.

Mrs. Steele Entertains Circle No. 5

Mrs. Dwight Steele 416 S. Court St., was hostess when members of Circle No. 5 of the First Methodist Church met Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Larry Graham, chairman, opened the meeting with a poem, "He knows, He Loves He Cares". She conducted a devotional service using the Bible quotation from Psalms 51:10-12. A brief business session was held.

The program consisted of a general discussion of the subject, what is spiritual self-discipline, in the church, the family and on the job.

Mrs. Graham sang a hymn, "Holy Spirit" accompanied by Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh. The meeting closed with a prayer.

During the social hour members enjoyed group singing. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

School Officials Discuss Student Dropout Problem

Richard Snouffer principal of Circleville High School and Richard Fisher, head of the guidance department, were guest speakers at the Child Conservation League meeting, Tuesday in the home of Mrs.

C. K. Vaughan, 335 Woodlane. "Children in Chaos" was the topic of their program which dealt in the problem of school dropouts. They stated that the dropout is defined as one who leaves school before completing grade 12 for reasons other than death or illness. The age of a dropout ranges from 14 to 19 or 20 years with the average age being 17½ years.

The four main reasons for leaving school discussed by Mr. Fisher were student ability; home centered reasons, such as parental pressures on the child to help out financially or a conflict in the family; adjustment to school or the inability to adjust or just no desire for school at all and student initiated and controlled reasons, such as marriage, armed forces and pregnancy.

He said many dropouts are from families whose parents never completed high school, which amounts to 58 per cent of the Ohio adult population. The family economic status is another factor for one leaving school.

According to the speaker employment for the dropout undoubtedly proves to be a problem since he is not prepared for a job. If he is lucky enough to find employment he will notice a great difference in earning power.

In an effort to solve this problem Mr. Snouffer stated that Circleville High School has improved their curriculum with special courses such as Remedial English and Math for students who would otherwise have a great difficulty, also specific diploma areas, more emphasis on progress and guidance counseling. The teachers also have a self-improvement or evaluation program for themselves.

Mr. Snouffer stressed a happy home life for the student with discipline, respect and positive values emphasized. He said the community can help verbally and financially and added that the school works closely with the juvenile court, churches and police.

Members asked for suggestions which could possibly encourage children to stay in school. Especially noted were a reading program for the elementary, mandatory summer school, an emphasis on elementary and junior high guidance and an address to classes by a former drop-out.

Mrs. Glenn McCoy, president, reported that Mrs. Robert Cole and Mrs. Vaughn will be co-chairmen of the program committee for the year.

Mrs. Ed Grigg reported on the Blood Bank and made a request for donors. The club will again help Robert Wellington with hearing tests next month.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. William Eddy.

NEW YORK (AP) — Douglas Fairbanks Jr. became an actor at the age of 14 and a motion picture star at 22. Although a variety of things, including business and diplomacy, seem to fascinate him more, he has never been far away from show business.

Fairbanks, whose television appearances occur at about 18 month intervals nowadays, will soon appear as host and narrator of series of four ABC "Preview" specials.

They will take a backstage look at assorted show business events.

The first, on Feb. 4, follows the creative activity involved in the new Anthony Newley musical being produced for Broadway.

"Actually I was very much involved in television for about four years, when we turned out over 160 half-hour shows," Fairbanks said. "And I must say that in the early, creative days of the series — perhaps even the first two years — it was very stimulating and exciting. But time catches up and it became harder and harder to get stories — I was glad to stop."

Fairbanks' present series came about because the company sponsoring the series was "a sort of client" of one of his business interests.

Now 55, Fairbanks and his wife maintained a New York apartment and a home in England.

His business interests include a string of European bowling alleys, a self-lighting cigarette now being test-marketed in Europe, hotels and motels, and a ball-point pen company.

Dear Abby: Take a Seat, Honey!

DEAR ABBY: Where is a girl supposed to sit when she is on a date with a boy who drives a car with bucket seats? Would it be proper for her to sit in the middle, between the two bucket seats so she won't be so far away from her date? Supposing the gear shift is between the two seats? Please answer in the paper because I know other girls who have the same problem.

NOT CLOSE ENOUGH

DEAR NOT: The girls sits in her own bucket seat. The problem of distance between the girl and her date is a mere drop in the bucket compared to those she'll run into if she tries to occupy the "no girl's land" between the seats. Sit where you belong. He can't drive forever.

DEAR ABBY: I am 26 and the mother of four children. When I married (six years ago) I weighed 118 pounds, and wore a size 12 dress. I am five feet six and everyone used to compliment me on my figure. Today I wear a size 18½ dress, and the last time I had the courage to get on a scale I weighed 183 pounds. I don't have to tell you how ashamed of myself I am. I have gone on every diet I've heard of and I've even tried to smoke, but it makes me sick. I just don't have the will power to stick with a diet. I've heard there is a club people join to help them lose weight. It's supposed to be something like Alcoholics Anonymous. People help each other. I need inspiration and encouragement from others who have the same problem. Or doesn't that work, either?

FAT AND DISGUSTED

DEAR FAT: Nothing "works" unless you are willing to work at making it work. "TOPS" (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) is one of the most prominent clubs. Write to their headquarters at 2306 S. Howell Ave. Milwaukee 7, Wisconsin, for information about their chapters in other cities. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter was raised in a good Christian home but you would never know it from the way she has acted since she was 14. She is 22 now and is going through her third divorce. She could never keep a husband because she was so crazy about men. And the lower they were, the better she liked them.

She is under a doctor's care now and the doctor told me my daughter runs with bums because of a "VITAMIN DEFICIENCY." Is this possible?

CAN'T BELIEVE IT

DEAR CAN'T: Your daughter's deficiency strikes me as more moral than physical, but maybe the doctor is right. After he fills her full of vitamins, you will find out.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WAITING FOR TOMMY": He seems more interested in having a ball than in having a ball and chain. Give up.

Jeanette McDonald, 57, Is Dead of Heart Ailment

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Gene Raymond makes a mournful journey to Hollywood today with the body of his wife, Jeanette McDonald, lovely songbird of a luring era in American movies who died of a heart ailment in Houston Thursday. She was 57.

Her death brought an end to a brilliant stage and film career and to her 27-year marriage — a childless one. Her last words to Raymond came in a Houston hospital, where she had been flown Tuesday to undergo heart surgery.

"I love you," she whispered. "I love you, too," he replied. She died a few minutes later.

The auburn-haired soprano had left her Beverly Hills home in serious but not critical condition as the result of a longtime cardiovascular ailment.

She had been operated upon in June 1963 by Dr. Michael E. DeBakey, who recently performed abdominal surgery on the Duke of Windsor. In December, she had an operation for abdominal adhesions at UCLA Medical Center.

She arrived in Houston by commercial airliner Tuesday and was rushed to Methodist Hospital by ambulance. Because of her weakened condition, open-heart surgery was postponed, a Hollywood spokesman said. She was being fed intravenously when she died.

Nelson Eddy, Miss MacDonald's partner in a series of melodic films from "Naughty Marietta" (1935) to "I Married an Angel" (1942), said he was "shocked and deeply distressed" to learn of her death.

Eddy once scotched the rumor that the Eddy-MacDonald team was as chilly in real life as another musical partnership, Gilbert and Sullivan.

"There never was a feud," he declared.

Miss MacDonald's career also paired with other top stars — Clark Gable in "San Francisco," Maurice Chevalier in "Love Me Tonight," and "The Merry Widow," Allan Jones in "The Firefly" and Lew Ayres in

Mrs. Steele Entertains Circle No. 5

Mrs. Dwight Steele 416 S. Court St., was hostess when members of Circle No. 5 of the First Methodist Church met Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Larry Graham, chairman, opened the meeting with a poem, "He knows, He Loves He Cares". She conducted a devotional service using the Bible quotation from Psalms 51:10-12. A brief business session was held.

The program consisted of a general discussion of the subject, what is spiritual self-discipline, in the church, the family and on the job.

Mrs. Graham sang a hymn, "Holy Spirit" accompanied by Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh. The meeting closed with a prayer.

During the social hour members enjoyed group singing. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

'Night Pastor' Is Helping B-Girls on Chicago's Strip

CHICAGO (AP) — Amid the gaudy neon lights which awaken Rush Street at dusk is a small desk lamp, illuminating in a second-story window a narrow white sign: "Night Pastor."

Behind it, six nights a week, sits the Rev. Robert H. Owen, minister to the "night people" — the bartenders, B-girls, musicians, cabbies and cooks of Chicago's near North Side entertainment strip.

Father Owen, 40, a Protestant Episcopal priest with a wife and six children, describes his work as an "offbeat ministry." His comments during an interview Wednesday bore out the description:

"This guy had just been rolled of $800 and somebody referred him to me. I didn't get the $800 back but I think I made him feel a little better about losing it."

"A young couple who had been living together for six months saw the sign in the window and came up out of curiosity. Three days later I married them."

"A lot of drunks wander in. They need to get some swill in them before they can talk about their problems."

A piano player of sorts, he started his unusual pastorate as the result of his friendship with

Local Baha'i Group Lists Weekly Thought

The following is from Baha'i teachings: "The basic truth of the Baha'i Faith is that religious truth is revealed progressively down through the ages; each new religion carries the former one to a higher spiritual level. All of these religions are divine in origin and their basic principles are in complete harmony. Their teachings are but facets of one truth."

"These religions differ only in their outer laws which pertain to outward observances appropriate to their time of revelation. These may be changed as civilization progresses, but inner spiritual law remains always the same. All the religions represent constantly advancing stages in the evolution of human society."

THROUGH THE CENTURIES...

Through cold, snow-covered fields, underneath ice-encrusted trees, the river runs its course.

This brings to mind the Christian Church. It was founded upon the teachings of Jesus who lived His life and did His work unperturbed by the coldness of many of His fellowmen and of the ruling officials. He knew that His work would stand because it was founded upon truth. It not only stood, but has flowed steadily on for centuries. It is still going on today in His churches.

If you do not attend church services why not go this coming Sunday, and identify yourself with this steady flow of the best for which life stands?

There is always room in the river for one more drop of water. There is always room in the Church for one more worshipper.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Air Force Gives Government Tests

By LARRY STOUT

The United States Air Force is trying to establish what the average high school senior knows about American government.

The test taken last Wednesday is the same test that is being taken throughout the country in different high schools. These tests will establish what the Air Force calls a "norm for the locality."

A recruit's score, either above or below the norm, will help tell the examiners for what line of duty he will be best adapted.

The seniors took the test not only to establish a norm for the locality, but also to establish a semester grade. Their test dealt only with government, whereas the Air Force recruit's test will deal with more than just government. This will also help qualify him for a course of training in our national defense.

By LINDA BOWERS

The Senior SOS met Jan. 7 and completed arrangements for several upcoming events.

The main topic of discussion was the Sweetheart Dance, which will be held Feb. 20 from 8-12 p.m. in the CHS gymnasium. Committees for this annual affair were established and a theme was chosen by the girls. A queen and her court for the dance were then chosen by secret ballot.

SOS Sweetheart Dance Is Traditional at CHS

By CHERYL BRAY

As tradition has it at CHS, each year the Senior SOS sponsored Sweetheart Dance gets into full swing. For the price of a three-dollar ticket, students can put on their best and try out the dance floor which is actually the same floor on which the Tiger cagers battle weekly and the phys ed roll call is read.

One of the two biggest dances of the year, with grades 9 through 12 attending the Sweetheart dance is always one of the most successful. The dances of 1963 and 1964 were particularly so. In 1963, with a theme of "Tonight", the CHS gymnasium seemed nestled among tall city buildings under a starlit sky. To make the theme complete, Susan Reichelderfer sang "Tonight" accompanied by the Dick Welsh Band. All in all "Tonight" gave CHS students a night to remember.

Again in 1964, "Our Winter Love" progressed as the Senior SOS went to work. With a color scheme of pink, red and white, "Our Winter Love" was carried out with paper hearts of all sizes scattered amongst trees, love birds and snow. Of course, refreshments are not to be left out — no matter what the theme, no matter what the year, and the supply is always abundant!

No semi-formal dance is complete without a queen and her court and those reigning over the Sweetheart Dance have been most regal. The queen and court are chosen yearly by the Senior SOS, of which they are members, on the basis of enthusiasm and club participation. 1963 saw Lynn Reichelderfer as queen with her escort, Eddie Wright; Nancy Harden, escorted by John Wardell, and Patti Hines, escorted by Fred Moore, as attendants. In 1964 Pam Speakman was chosen queen and escorted by Tom MacDonald. Her two attendants were Patsy Lattimer escorted by Bill Diehl and Jane Abbott with Larry McDowell as her escort.

Who will be members of the royal court this year as the excitement of the Sweetheart Dance unfolds before us? She will of course be a senior, but no more than that is to be revealed. What will be the theme? Who will ask who? And, most important, will you be there?

Importance of Study

By BOB ANDERSON

Why should I study? This is a question that is asked by many students at CHS.

As we know, studying enables you to live more intelligently, and you have to live intelligently to survive in the modern day world of the push-button and computer.

After graduation, most students will either go to college or secure a job, with the hopes they will succeed in whatever future life holds for them. But there remains one great barrier that may decide whether you will make it, and it is, "Did you or didn't you study in high school and prepare yourself to meet the future?"

Studying is very important and you should do your best in all your classes and on the upcoming exams so you will be prepared.

Teacher of the Week

TOM BENNETT

By PATSY GALLION

Mr. Tom Bennett, biology and health teacher, lives in Knollwood Village with his wife Jerry and his daughter, Susan, a sophomore at CHS.

Mr. Bennett was graduated from Aid High School, Aid, Ohio, and attended Rio Grande College, Marshall College and was graduated with a BS degree from Ohio University.

He is an active member of Kiwanis Club, First Methodist Church, Pickaway Saddle and Bridle Club and Pickaway Board of Realtors.

Mr. Bennett's hobbies include sports, show horses and horseback riding.

He was asked how he regarded CHS as a whole. He answered, "I came to Circleville High School in 1946, following World War II, with the idea of staying here for one year. The fact that 18 years later I am still here, gives you some idea of how I feel about Circleville High School in particular and the Circleville community in general. As a school, we have the problems that any school of our size would encounter. However, I feel our student body as a whole is above average in conduct, attitude and overall citizenship. I think also, percentage-wise, you will find as many outstanding students among our student body as any other of comparable size throughout the state. To put it briefly, I can say there have been many, many times when I have been very proud of our student body and never can I remember being ashamed of them."

When asked his philosophy of teaching, he replied, "I believe that a teacher must be in command at all times and able to cope with any situation which may arise under his jurisdiction. Although students should feel free to laugh and have fun when funny things happen, as they often do, they should be given as much freedom as they have learned to use. It is one of the functions of teachers to help the students know the boundaries of their freedoms and privileges. When this relationship is established, a happy working situation has been reached. However, occasions will always arise when students need to be disciplined, and learning to be an effective disciplinarian is one of the goals of every teacher. I believe it is a human nature that all teachers would like to be popular, but respect should never be sacrificed for popularity.

"I believe that all teachers do a certain amount of preaching along with their teaching. This is a way of helping students to establish a philosophy of life as they grow up and to give them some principles as standard-bearers to guide them later. Often this will result in the student's saying, 'You sound just like my parents'. I know I have done my share of preaching — I hope I have done my share of teaching."

Mr. Bennett has truly done his share of teaching; has been an excellent example and help to those entering the field; and a good friend to all the students.

Hunters Look To Springtime

By LARRY STOUT

Where does the hunter turn in the spring when hunting season is all but gone? You can be sure that he will go hunting, but not with a gun.

Most hunters are either fishermen or they like to rough it as campers. Some hunters even combine the two. They usually have a favorite fishing spot or campsite already picked, even though they are constantly hunting for a better spot. The hunter searches for a cool, shady spot along a creek bank or a soft, mossy campsite along side a mighty oak in the quiet woods.

The hunter is best known as a hunter, but has trained himself to be well acquainted with fishing and camping. He also may be known as a trapper. He has become well acquainted with all these because if it ever need be he may use this knowledge for survival.

The hunter isn't restricted to any certain type of sport. He may be active in any number of sports, such as swimming and baseball. So it is very unlikely that a hunter will ever spend a summer being bored and inactive.

One Act Plays To Be Staged

By PATTI JEFFREYS

"A Woman's World?" is the title given to the evening of one act plays and various other cuttings to be presented the evening of Jan. 30 by the Curtain Callers.

Committees, as well as cast members, are very busy. Chairmen are as follows: tickets — Malinda Anderson; programs — Patti Jeffries; publicity — Carol Wise; Lights — Dave Matesky; stage — Dwight Wilson; make up — Patti Jeffries; properties — Susie Bennett; ushers — Chris Zehner.

Turning to the program there will be two one acts. "Sisters under the Skin" will be directed by Glenn Plum. Nancy Yates will direct "When Shakespeare's Ladies meet".

Other scenes and sketches will be presented. A scene from "Adam and Eve" featuring Dwight Wilson and Linda Conrad; a scene concerning early American Indians, with Ray Ferguson as chief; and a cutting showing the problems of a mother and wife when her husband is a pickpocket and her son is not following in the father's footsteps with Mike Loretz as the wayward son.

Need more be said? Come see for yourself if it really is "A Woman's World?"

Science Fair Plans Begin

On Jan. 7, at a meeting of science teachers, plans were instituted for the annual Science Fair.

Members of the planning committee are E. R. Bennett, Kent Carpenter, Edwin C. Leatherwood, Kester McCain, Don Neff, Don Poling, Betty Rickey, Clair Saam and Paul Smith. Certain members of the group received assignments in preparation for this year's Science Fair are March 4-5.

The annual Science Fair is an event during which students are given the opportunity to manifest their creative ingenuity in the form of science projects. Each student is to furnish all materials necessary for setting up his project. This event has become an anticipated landmark in the lives of many science students; its success depends greatly on the unleashed enthusiasm commonly associated with youth.

Mr. Richard Fyffe, former Key Club president, 1959-60, was present at the Key Club dinner meeting held Tuesday at the Mecca.

SHRINKAGE — The thimble-size device at right does the same job, measuring acceleration of a space vehicle, as its much larger predecessor at left, say people at the Honeywell electronics lab in Minneapolis, Minn. The new accelerometer was intended initially only for flight control systems, but tests indicate it is accurate and reliable enough for inertial guidance applications.

Mickey Wins Top Athlete Honor Again

DALLAS (AP) — Golfer Mickey Wright is delighted to have been picked as the Female Athlete of the Year for the second straight time but she says she also is surprised.

"Naturally, I am delighted and honored. But I also was surprised. I didn't think I would win it a second time because 1964 was an Olympic year," she said Thursday night.

The 29-year-old blonde, who now has won more tournaments and more money than any other woman in pro golf, was the first choice of 118 voters on The Associated Press panel of about 250 sports writers and broadcasters. With a total of 492 points, Miss Wright easily outdistanced Olympic swimmer Donna de Varona of Santa Barbara, Calif., who had 235 points for second place in the year-end poll.

Dawn Fraser, the Australian swimmer who won the Female Athlete of the Year Award in 1962, placed third, followed by tennis ace Billie Jean Moffitt and 15-year-old Olympic swimming star Sharon Stouder.

Despite an illness that kept her out of competition for a month, Miss Wright won 11 golf tournaments in 1964 to equal her 1963 record and was the leading ladies PGA money winner for the fourth straight year with $29,800.

Short-Handed 76ers Defeated

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS As Wilt Chamberlain started a week's vacation across the continent, the Philadelphia 76ers lost their first game with the 7-foot-1 ace in their employment.

The 76ers, playing with only seven men, dropped a 138-126 decision to the Baltimore Bullets in the National Basketball Association Thursday night. Los Angeles downed Detroit 104-100 in the other game.

The 76ers announced the ac- quisition of Chamberlain from the San Francisco Warriors early Thursday. However, Philadel- phia gave Chamberlain a week off so he could settle his affairs in San Francisco.

That left the 76ers with seven

Maryland '5' Is Strong on East Coast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

All of a sudden, Maryland is the team to watch in college basketball.

Overlooked in preseason cal- culations, the unranked Terps have jelled and now must be reckoned with in the tough Atlantic Coast Conference.

The performances of sopho- mores Jay McMillen of Man- field, Pa., Gary Ward of Wash- ington, D.C. and Joe Harrington of Phippsburg, Maine, have sparked the resurgence of the Terps.

They combined for 66 points as the Terps won their fifth straight Thursday night, a 93-85 double-overtime conquest over Wake Forest at Winston-Salem, N.C. It was Maryland's fifth ACC triumph against two de- feats and knocked Wake Forest out of a triple tie for first with Duke and N.C. State at 4-1.

Maryland's triumph over- shadowed Davidson's 86-77 Southern Conference victory over West Virginia at Charles- ton, W. Va., a slim national program.

It was the 12th straight for the eighth-ranked Wildcats, the only team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action.

In other games, Memphis State beat Loyola of The South at New Orleans 71-65, Wyoming downed home Denver 81-76, Virginia Tech defeated Richmond 68-58 at Blacksburg, Florida, on the road, whipped Mississippi State 74-59 and Gonzaga took Montana State U. 91-79 at Spo- kane.

McMillen scored 31 points, including 13 straight in the two extra periods, as Maryland upped its over-all record to 9-5, already more games than the Terps have won in each of the last three seasons. Ward chipped in with 25 and Harring- ton 10.

The regulation game ended 76-76 when Richard Herring of Wake Forest converted two free throws in the last 13 seconds. Bob Leonard, high for the Dea- cons with 37 points, tied the first overtime at 80-80 and Wake For- est went ahead in the second OT, 84-82, on Ronnie Watts' bas- ket.

McMillen tied it and Phil Carlson hit a jump shot to put Maryland ahead for good at 86-84. Ward then hit a tap-in and two more baskets to sew it up for the Terps.

Richardson Gives His OK to Keane

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Richardson, first New York Yankee to sign his 1965 con- tract, said today the firing of Yogi Berra as Yankee manager came as a "shock" to him but at the same time he was looking forward to playing under John- ny Keane.

"Everything I've heard about Keane has been good," said the American League's All-Star sec- ond baseman. "He has an excel- lent knowledge of the game and he is a fellow who commands respect — in a quiet way."

"I had the opportunity of ob- serving him on one occasion. That was a number of years ago when I played for him in an American Association All-Star game. He left a lasting impres- sion upon me."

AFL Stars To Tangle On Saturday

HOUSTON (AP) — The American Football League's All-Star game, hurriedly trans- planted to Houston from New Orleans when 21 Negro players claimed racial discrimination, tests the pride of the Eastern Division against the best of the West Saturday afternoon at Jep- pesen Stadium.

Houston Oilers officials who undertook the difficult job of promoting the game under short notice hopefully expected a crowd of 20,000 if the weather- man lives up to his forecast of cool dry weather.

There had been talk of a crowd as high as 60,000 if the game had been played in New Orleans' Sugar Bowl.

The game will be telecast at 2 p.m., EST, by the American Broadcasting Co., with the Houston area blacked out.

The West has won all three previous games in the series, pulling out a 27-24 decision last year at San Diego in the final seconds. There was no All-Star game in 1960, the league's first year.

Coach Lou Saban of the cham- pion Buffalo Bills banked heav- ily on his own Buffalo players and a big delegation from the second-place Boston Patriots to put the East in the win column.

Sid Gillman, Western coach, will have five of his San Diego Chargers in the starting line-up — tight end Dave Kocourek, flanker Lance Alworth, running back Keith Lincoln, tackle Ron Nix and guard Walt Sweeney.

Carlos Sparks Otters to Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Big Don Carlos, leading scor- er in the Ohio Conference, sparked Otterbein to a 71-60 vic- tory over Marietta Thursday night to highlight an abbreviat- ed Ohio card involving just four collegiate basketball games.

Marietta, dropping its first game at home in six outings, stayed with the Otters until late in the contest. Carlos, with the scored tied at 44-44, laid in a rebound goal and from there his team never was headed. He totaled 24 points. The Otters now are 5-2 in the conference. The Pioneers slipped to 3-4.

In other games, Dave Bricker scored 17 points to lead Heidel- berg to its first victory of the season 78-59 over Oberlin. Ash- land defeated Malone 91-71 and Fenn beat John Carroll 70-51.

Arkansas gained 594 yards rushing against Kansas State Teachers in 1936.

The long stream of guests also includes Joe Namath, the Ala- bama grid star who signed re- cently with the New York Jets for $400,000, former heavy- weight champion Max Schmeling, Cleveland Browns' coach Blanton Collier, Cincinnati Roy- als basketball ace Oscar Rob- ertson, and coach Bump Elliott of Michigan's Big Ten and Rose Bowl champions.

Others due to receive awards at the evening event included college gridders Dick Butkus of Illinois, Steve DeLong of Ten- nessee, Mel Anthony of Mich- igan, Glenn Ressler of Penn State, and Jerry Rhome of Tulsa.

Professional football offered coach Don Shula and players Gino Marchetti, Lenny Moore and Jim Parker of Baltimore; Charlie Taylor of Washington; Jim Taylor of Green Bay, Bart Starr of Green Bay; Charlie Johnson of St. Louis; Frank Tarkenton of the Minnesota Vik- ings, and Don Meredith of the Dallas Cowboys.

Wilt May Leave 76ers Holding Expensive Bag

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain might retire at the end of this National Bas- ketball Association season, leav- ing the Philadelphia 76ers hold- ing an empty money bag.

The 76ers paid a reported $75- 000 Wednesday night to the San Francisco Warriors for the 7- foot-1 scoring machine. Phila- delphia threw in a reserve cen- ter-forward with a recent histo- ry of fainting spells, one of the shortest guards in the league and a forward who has yet to play his first NBA minute this season.

Superficially, this sounds worse than it actually is for the Warriors. But if Chamberlain plays only the three remaining months of the season and retires at the ripe young age of 28, it's a financial bath for the 76ers without the bubbles.

"I told him he made a bad deal," Chamberlain said Thurs- day about Philadelphia co-own- er Ike Richman. "I'm not sure how long I'll play."

"I take one year at a time," Chamberlain continued. "Right now, I'm not sure what I'll be doing next season."

Chamberlain said there were many reasons why he was con- sidering retirement, but he didn't want to name them yet.

Richman, a close friend and lawyer of the highest paid NBA player, took an equally short sighted view from his Philadel- phia law office.

"Wilt told me he would only talk about one year," said Rich- man. "That's all right with me. "Let the future take care of itself, I know I have Chamber- lain this year — definitely."

"I expect to have him for many more years. However, he has a right to do what he thinks is best for himself. And, when he makes that decision, when he wants to retire, we will always remain friends."

The Warriors play the New York Knicks in San Francisco's Civic Auditorium tonight with- out the services of two of their acquisitions and, perhaps, with- out the other.

Paul Neumann, the 6-foot-1 ex-Stanford star, said he might wait for the Warriors to come East. Lee Shaffer, who refused to play this season for the 76ers, definitely isn't in shape and probably won't be around. And Connie Dierking didn't appear for practice in San Francisco Thursday.

Chamberlain was given a week to rest, treat his broken nose and say goodbye to friends in San Francisco. So the first game he plays for the 76ers could be against the Warriors. Neumann, a hot-shooting guard, averaged 11.6 last season as a part-time player.

Shaffer, a 6-7 forward from North Carolina, averaged 13.1 last season and 18.6 the year before. Hanum said Shaffer could be one of the greatest players in the league but ex- pressed some concern over his injured knee. They talked for hours last Sunday with the 76ers' permission.

Dierking, a 6-9 graduate of Cincinnati, suffered fainting spells this season. Medical tests failed to show anything physi- cally wrong with him.

In Memoriam

Again the grim reaper has reminded us that death is certain.
This time the Lord has chosen to take from us a most loved member of our family, Florence E. Valentine.
She was a devoted wife, mother and grandmother, loved the members of her family, served them and her friends with an intense devotion. She had strength of character to behold, that radiated from her Master.
She will be sadly missed by all and with the feeling expressed once by a pet.
"We cannot say and will not say,
That she is dead, she is just away.
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand."
She has wandered into an unknown land and left us sorrowing.
How very fair it needs must be since she lingers there.
And you—O you who the mildest yearn
For the long loved step and the glad return.
Think of her faring on, as dear,
In the love of There, as the love of Here.
Think of her still as the same I say
She is not dead, she is just away."

Dedicated Group Conducts Project for Worthy Purpose

READY FOR SALE — Here are two of the four steers slated to be sold Wednesday by the Circleville Prayer Circle. All profits realized will be sent to the Oriental Missionary Society and the Men for Mission Group, two prominent nationwide organizations that promote missionary activity. This marks the third year the local Prayer Circle has conducted a steer project.

A dedicated group in this community conducts a unique project that promotes a worthy purpose.

The organization is the Circleville Prayer Circle, composed mostly of people from this area. Their project is devoted to assisting missionary work throughout the world.

Members of the Prayer Circle take considerable pride and interest in making their missionary endeavor a success. Their project, defined in brief, amounts to buying four young steers in April, fattening them up in the fall, then selling them in December or January.

All the profits derived then are sent to the Oriental Missionary Society and the Men for Mission Group, two outstanding organizations in the missionary field.

LAST YEAR the Prayer Circle turned over almost $1,000 to the two missionary groups as the end result of this steer raising-selling effort. The year

New Holland Bank Names '65 Officers

The First National Bank of New Holland reelected all its directors and officers at its annual meeting of stockholders Tuesday.

Robert W. Kirkpatrick was renamed to the board of directors as president in addition to the following members, Harry K. Armstrong, Joe Owens, Roy Steward, N. B. Fannin and Joe Bryan.

Armstrong was reelected chairman of the board; Joe Owens, vice president; Betty Hott, cashier; Ruth Monteth, assistant cashier; Pat Brown, bookkeeper; and Judy Speakman, bookkeeping department.

Kirkpatrick reported to the stockholders that, with the completion last July of the new addition and modernization of the interior, the bank is offering complete banking service. He stated the bank had experienced a most successful year in 1964 and that it will continue to show gains in deposits, loans and total assets during 1965.

Sufficient funds are available for further expansion of sound credit in the New Holland area, he said.

The bank completed its 60th year on July 20, 1964.

before it was about $1,100.

This year members hope the amount will be the largest ever the third time around. The effort now has been declared an annual project by the Circle.

Sale of this year's four steers is set for this Wednesday at the Bowling Stock Yards. The animals will either be auctioned off or sold to individuals who might be interested prior to selling time.

The steers, considered real dandies this year, are purchased from Dr. John Bowers. He keeps them at his farm on the Island Road and raises them at a minimum cost to the Prayer Circle.

Spokesman for the Prayer group said Dr. Bower's assistance makes it possible for them to have only a small investment in the four cattle. This means more money for the missionary field.

The Prayer Circle now has 21 members. Robert Tacy, Eastmore Ave., is this year's president. Mrs. Amy Spangler is vice president and Mrs. Tacy serves as treasurer.

THE CIRCLE was started about five years by Marshall McFarland, Route 1, a local contractor. His interest was aroused after he read and heard considerable information on the worthwhile work carried out by missionaries.

McFarland's interest has remained high through the years and his enthusiasm has touched others. The membership is even bolstered by a family that lives in Fairfield County.

The Circle meets the last Thursday of each month in members' homes on a rotation basis. The sessions, which start at 7:30 p.m., are open to anyone who might like to come.

Often the monthly meetings are highlighted by veteran missionaries who speak on their experiences and work in the field.

The Circle's membership roster includes persons of several denominations, including Nazarene, Church of Christ in Christian Union, First Baptist, EUB and Methodist. Harmony and cooperation comes naturally within the organization, spokesmen explain.

The steer project money is earmarked for obtaining and sending missionaries of different denominations to all parts of the world, including countries in Asia, Africa and South America. And the local group is allowed to designate the exact area where their funds will go.

ONE OF the missionaries assisted in the past by the local group is Rev. Milford Ferguson, a graduate of the Circleville Bible College. He is serving in Formosa.

McFarland says the Circle's four steers are prime and ready for Wednesday's trip to the stock yards. He said further information on sale of the animals or activities of the Prayer Group may be obtained by contacting him.

Judge Commends Man For Slaying Attacker

CLEVELAND (AP) — A commendation from the judge came along with dismissal of second-degree murder charges against an east sider who shot and killed a man who was attacking another man with a knife.

The charges against Harris Clark, 23, of Cleveland, were dismissed Thursday. Common Pleas Judge Earl R. Hoover, who acted on the recommendation of the county prosecutor's office, said: "We always hear complaints that people won't go to the help of somebody under attack. This man did, and he should be commended." Police said Clark shot and killed Sherman Porter last Oct. 25 when the latter refused an order to stop his attack on Boykin Peters, who suffered stab wounds.

GI's Home Silent; Tragedy Takes Wife, 7 Children

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — To live in a home of silence is the hardest task still facing Sgt. Wayne Traxler.

The 17-year Air Force veteran tries to put sound into his small apartment with a new phonograph and his collection of three records.

Nothing can replace the sound of seven children and a wife.

"It is hard to forget," the sergeant says, "when there is nothing but silence. It is hard to learn to live alone."

On Sept. 4, Traxler was serving in South Viet Nam.

On the same day his wife, Doris, and his seven children were returning to Sacramento from a vacation in Santa Ana, Calif.

The car rounded a curve near Merced, Calif. It went out of control and plunged over a 40-foot embankment.

When the auto came to rest at the bottom of the deep decline, five of his children — Caroline, 17; Dwight, 16; Gilda, 13; Duane, 5, and Anastasia, 1 — were dead.

A few hours later in a nearby hospital his wife of 17 years died. So did his daughter, Charmagne, 8, and his son, Wayne, 7. There was none left.

Traxler was brought home from Viet Nam. Today he is serving with his old unit, the 552nd Airborne Radar Wing, at Sacramento's McClellan Air Force Base.

"I'll go back anytime they want me," Traxler says. "I don't care where they send me."

The sergeant now lives in a three-room apartment near the base. One picture, of his oldest daughter in a party dress, is the only visible reminder of his loss.

The other pictures, the snapshots, the memories, are kept in a scrapbook, tucked away.

Like most service regulars, Traxler outwardly is a salty, tough veteran, accustomed to violence, a companion of death.

Since that day of grief, Traxler, 34, has attempted to rebuild his life in the old-service fashion, without a cry for sympathy, without a demand for aid.

"I spend a lot of time on the base now," he says, "and I think a lot of the future."

The sergeant already has mapped his path for the days after he reaches the 20-year retirement plateau.

Forestry Assn. Conducts Meet

Conservationists, educators and interested people from all over the state will converge on Columbus Jan. 22-23, for the 62nd annual meeting of the Ohio Forestry Assn.

Nathan M. Fouch, 1375 N. Court St., will speak on "CFM Meets the Small Woodland Ownership Problem." Fouch is division forester for Container Corporation of America.

The convention is expected to attract some 700 persons to hear discussions on what is being done to preserve and utilize Ohio's natural resources and what is being planned for the future.

Underground Explosion Blows Manhole Covers

CONNEAUT, Ohio (AP) — An underground explosion that hurled two manhole covers 20 feet into the air and shattered windows in the downtown area Thursday was blamed on an electrical shortcircuit in a conduit box below the pavement at Main and Harbor Streets.

Some 200 homes were without electric power for up to two hours, said a spokesman for the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. The blast hurled chunks of ice and frozen earth through second-story windows of the Eagles Lodge and a hardware store.

Lie Tests Are Given In Cincinnati Slayings

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police are giving polygraph tests to the first persons to reach the garage where Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Coby were found in their hunt for clues to the baffling murder.

The Cobys were shot to death in their station wagon last Nov. 25. The car was in the garage of their home and authorities at first thought they were carbon monoxide victims. Three patrolmen took the tests Thursday and Police Chief Stanley R. Schrotel said this was "in the hope that something noticed subconsciously and not recalled by memory might be developed into evidence bearing on the case."

Wealthy Man's Idle Pay Claim Labeled Only Joke

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — A wealthy former state senator who said he intended to apply for unemployment and Social Security benefits claimed today the whole thing was a joke.

Roy B. (Mud) Gardner, retired real estate and car dealer who was defeated in the November election, said a metropolitan newspaper story which referred to him as a millionaire prompted him to plant a hoax.

He called the story "ridiculous." He had said earlier he didn't know whether he was a millionaire or not.

The peppery, 71-year-old Gardner admits he has wide real estate holdings but contends he doesn't know what the property is worth.

"Because of that ridiculous millionaire business, I told a reporter I was going to apply for unemployment and Social Security benefits," Gardner said. "You guys were taken in hook, line, and sinker," he declared.

After the newspaper story was published, The Associated Press called Gardner for confirmation and was told he definitely planned to file for unemployment pay.

Gardner now insists he would not be eligible for unemployment compensation.

"You would have known I was not eligible if you had checked the law," Gardner said, adding that he sponsored Ohio's present unemployment law in the 1963 legislature.

He said before his bill was passed, the unemployment fund had an $80 million deficit and "was taking in $25 million a month while paying out $40 million." He said the system now is sound.

A check with the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation at the time of the original story had indicated he could claim benefits.

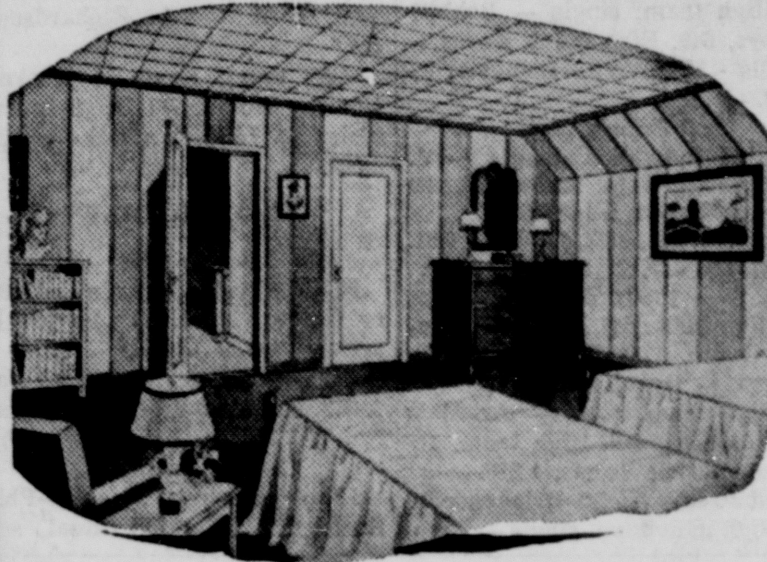

Gardner sold his automobile agency here in 1957 and since then has been what he calls an unsalaried "figurehead" president of a real estate holding company in which his son is the only employee.

At the time of the original story, Gardner said he figured his auto agency had paid about $12,000 into the unemployment fund and that he was entitled to benefits.

He said now his $5,000 a year salary as a senator did qualify him for Social Security benefits but, he said, he wasn't serious about that, either.

Robert W. Kirkpatrick was reelected as president in addition to the following members, Harry K. Armstrong, Joe Owens, Roy Steward, N. B. Fannin and Joe Bryan.

Armstrong was reelected chairman of the board; Joe Owens, vice president; Betty Hoff, cashier; Ruth Monteth, assistant cashier; Pat Brown, bookkeeper; and Judy Speakman, bookkeeping department.

Kirkpatrick reported to the stockholders that, with the completion last July of the new addition and modernization of the interior, the bank is offering complete banking service. He stated the bank had experienced a most successful year in 1964 and that it will continue to show gains in deposits, loans and total assets during 1965.

Sufficient funds are available for further expansion of sound credit in the New Holland area, he said.

The bank completed its 60th year on July 20, 1964.

GI's Home Silent; Tragedy Takes Wife, 7 Children

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — To live in a home of silence is the hardest task still facing Sgt. Wayne Traxler.

The 17-year Air Force veteran tries to put sound into his small apartment with a new phonograph and his collection of three records.

Nothing can replace the sound of seven children and a wife.

"It is hard to forget," the sergeant says, "when there is nothing but silence. It is hard to learn to live alone."

On Sept. 4, Traxler was serving in South Viet Nam.

On the same day his wife, Doris, and his seven children were returning to Sacramento from a vacation in Santa Ana, Calif.

The car rounded a curve near Merced, Calif. It went out of control and plunged over a 40-foot embankment.

When the auto came to rest at the bottom of the deep decline, five of his children — Caroline, 17; Dwight, 16; Gilda, 13; Duane, 5, and Anastasia, 1 — were dead.

A few hours later in a nearby hospital his wife of 17 years died. So did his daughter, Charmagne, 8, and his son, Wayne, 7. There was none left.

Traxler was brought home from Viet Nam. Today he is serving with his old unit, the 552nd Airborne Radar Wing, at Sacramento's McClellan Air Force Base.

"I'll go back anytime they want me," Traxler says. "I don't care where they send me."

The sergeant now lives in a three-room apartment near the base. One picture, of his oldest daughter in a party dress, is the only visible reminder of his loss.

The other pictures, the snapshots, the memories, are kept in a scrapbook, tucked away.

Like most service regulars, Traxler outwardly is a salty, tough veteran, accustomed to violence, a companion of death.

Since that day of grief, Traxler, 34, has attempted to rebuild his life in the old-service fashion, without a cry for sympathy, without a demand for aid.

"I spend a lot of time on the base now," he says, "and I think a lot of the future."

The sergeant already has mapped his path for the days after he reaches the 20-year retirement plateau.

"After the accident," Traxler says, "Sergeant Shriver, director of the Peace Corps, wrote and asked if at some future date I would be interested in working with the Peace Corps."

"This has become my aim."

"I will go into the Peace Corps as soon as my service career ends, not quite three years ahead."

What type of job will Traxler seek with the corps?

"Just let me work with children," he says. "I guess it is, or rather was, obvious that I liked kids. I want to work with them again, even if they're not my own."

Then Sgt. Traxler, a native of South Bend, Ind., hopes there will be no more silence in his home.

Underground Explosion Blows Manhole Covers

CONNEAUT, Ohio (AP) — An underground explosion that hurled two manhole covers 20 feet into the air and shattered windows in the downtown area Thursday was blamed on an electrical shortcircuit in a conduit box below the pavement at Main and Harbor Streets.

Some 200 homes were without electric power for up to two hours, said a spokesman for the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. The blast hurled chunks of ice and frozen earth through second-story windows of the Eagles Lodge and a hardware store.

Lie Tests Are Given In Cincinnati Slayings

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police are giving polygraph tests to the first persons to reach the garage where Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Coby were found in their hunt for clues to the baffling murder.

The Cobys were shot to death in their station wagon last Nov. 25. The car was in the garage of their home and authorities at first thought they were carbon monoxide victims. Three patrolmen took the tests Thursday and Police Chief Stanley R. Schrotel said this was "in the hope that something noticed subconsciously and not recalled by memory might be developed into evidence bearing on the case."

Wealthy Man's Idle Pay Claim Labeled Only Joke

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — A wealthy former state senator who said he intended to apply for unemployment and Social Security benefits claimed today the whole thing was a joke.

Roy B. (Mud) Gardner, retired real estate and car dealer who was defeated in the November election, said a metropolitan newspaper story which referred to him as a millionaire prompted him to plant a hoax.

He called the story "ridiculous." He had said earlier he didn't know whether he was a millionaire or not.

The peppery, 71-year-old Gardner admits he has wide real estate holdings but contends he doesn't know what the property is worth.

"Because of that ridiculous millionaire business, I told a reporter I was going to apply for unemployment and Social Security benefits," Gardner said. "You guys were taken in hook, line, and sinker," he declared.

After the newspaper story was published, The Associated Press called Gardner for confirmation and was told he definitely planned to file for unemployment pay.

Gardner now insists he would not be eligible for unemployment compensation.

"You would have known I was not eligible if you had checked the law," Gardner said, adding that he sponsored Ohio's present unemployment law in the 1963 legislature.

He said before his bill was passed, the unemployment fund had an $80 million deficit and "was taking in $25 million a month while paying out $40 million." He said the system now is sound.

A check with the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation at the time of the original story had indicated he could claim benefits.

Gardner sold his automobile agency here in 1957 and since then has been what he calls an unsalaried "figurehead" president of a real estate holding company in which his son is the only employee.

At the time of the original story, Gardner said he figured his auto agency had paid about $12,000 into the unemployment fund and that he was entitled to benefits.

He said now his $5,000 a year salary as a senator did qualify him for Social Security benefits but, he said, he wasn't serious about that, either.
